Greetings, and welcome to the 26th Edition of the Far West Skier’s Guide! This magazine will provide you with the information you need to find like-minded friends who ski and board, while exploring new places and fun adventures with members of the Far West Ski Association.

The Far West Ski Association (FWSA) is a non-profit, volunteer organization that is one of the country’s largest ski associations. Our 11 member councils represent skiers and boarders in the 13 western states of Alaska, Arizona, California, Colorado, Hawaii, Idaho, Nevada, New Mexico, Oregon, South Dakota, Utah, Washington and Wyoming. In California, there are six councils: Bay Area, Central, Inland, Los Angeles, Orange, and San Diego. Arizona council is based in Phoenix, Intermountain is based in Boise, New Mexico is based in Albuquerque, Northwest is in Portland and Sierra is located in Reno. If your ski club is affiliated with one of these councils, you are a member of FWSA!

If you like snowsports, you have come to the right place! Our member clubs have active, year-round social and recreational events, including ski trips, recreational ski racing, water skiing, hiking, river rafting, dinners, theater, cruises, diving, biking, softball, wine tasting, camping, parties and just about any other fun activity you can think of. FWSA and its member clubs and councils are the place to join with other, active social people, and get discounted rates for your favorite event. You can visit our website at www.fwsa.org or follow us on Facebook and Twitter to learn more about our growing and vibrant organization.

Far West Ski Association is offering several fabulous trips during the 2014 calendar year. We kick off the year with our FWSA Ski Week during the week of January 25 – February 1 where we ski and have fun in Beaver Creek, Colorado. If you are looking for a shorter ski trip, we will be traveling to the Davis Area, Utah, from February 22 – 27 for our FWSA Mini Ski Week to ski Snowbasin.

If you are interested in international travel, from March 6 – 23, we are off to Zermatt, Switzerland, followed by an optional extension to Spain. But, that’s not all! We recently returned from a fun and successful dive trip to Belize, and we will set sail from November 9-16, 2013 to explore the Caribbean on the cruise ship The Norwegian Epic. In the fall of 2014, we will be venturing to the continent of Africa to go on safari and visit Victoria Falls. You can be a part of all of this, and more, by joining a FWSA member club and council. Or, you can become a direct member of the Association. See page 10. In addition, our member clubs and councils offer their own trips and activities, so you can find friends and visit new places whenever you are ready to go. So join us!

From June 12-15, 2014, we will host our 82nd Annual Far West Ski Association Convention in Bend, Oregon. Our Convention will have special guests, a silent auction and travel expo, and lots of optional activities. These will include hiking, biking, golfing and our not to be missed Pub Crawl. On Saturday night, we will have music and dancing; and an Awards Banquet to recognize outstanding achievements in snowsports. In addition to all the fun, we host a Snowsports Leadership Academy where we offer seminars in ski club leadership and management, safety, and snowsports trends. We also host a Public Affairs Panel with special guest speakers that are not to be missed! This fantastic weekend of events will be hosted by Northwest Ski Club Council. Put it on your calendar now!

Far West Ski Foundation is a public benefit corporation, a nonprofit and tax exempt organization under IRS category 501(c)(3). It is through the Foundation that we work to support the Athletic Scholarship Program, Skier Rehabilitation Program, Snowsports History Program, and Women’s Ski Jumping. The Foundation is growing, and we will continue to work hard to make each year more successful than the last. We appreciate all of our generous donors who have made the Foundation strong.

It is with anticipation that we enter an Olympic year, with the Sochi Winter Olympics to be held February 7-23, 2014. Our U.S. Ski Team is stronger than ever. The Far West Ski Association and Far West Ski Foundation have generated funds and support not only for junior racers and future Olympians, but also for Women’s Ski Jumping USA. We will especially feel a great sense of pride as we watch this team compete in their first-ever Winter Olympics.

FWSA has a wonderful team of volunteers who contribute countless hours of time and expertise to our organization. In addition, we could not have the outstanding level of success that we achieve year after year, without the generosity and support of our industry partners and sponsors. Thank you for all you do on behalf of FWSA!

Great things are happening at Far West Ski Association, and I look forward to seeing you soon, on the slopes or at our 82nd Annual Far West Ski Association Convention in Bend, Oregon next June! ▲

FWSA Council Services Support Clubs

by Jo Simpson
Vice-President of Council Services, FWSA

Council Services supports Far West Ski Association clubs by working through the presidents of the 11 member councils. I am honored to have been elected Vice President of Council Services and look forward to serving in this role for the next two years. We have a talented and involved group of council presidents and program chairs who work together to provide programs and initiatives that benefit our member clubs.

There are several great programs that Council Services oversees: Club and Council Communication and Outstanding Club Awards, Councils’ Man and Woman of the Year Recognition, Charities and Our Community, and Family and Youth Involvement.

Council Services has a goal to increase submissions from clubs for the newsletter, website and outstanding club competitions. These recognitions are a great vehicle for clubs to recognize their hard working volunteers; however, we would like to see more club entries. Our Club/Council Communication Awards Chair, Crissymarie King, has done an outstanding job in her first year with this program and she has great ideas for enhancing it. She is compiling an e-mail group of the newsletter editors and webmasters to enhance communication with them throughout the year. We look forward to working with her to explore ways to stimulate entries for 2014.

The FWSA Skin Cancer Prevention Program and its mascot Savvy Snake, chaired by Fran Long as part of the Family and Youth Program, have been wildly successful in engaging kids and parents at ski shows. The stickers and brochures with a kid’s game are a big hit. FWSA is funding the materials for ski shows this fall. In addition to being a great vehicle to educate kids about using sunscreen, the promotion also provides an opportunity to make parents aware of the varied programs FWSA offers through our local clubs.

FWSA winners are highlighted on pages 34-35. The Charity and Community Service recognition, chaired by Sigrid Noack, highlights the good work our clubs and councils do to benefit their communities. Sigrid and her committee have improved the judging criteria and process for these awards, and we look forward to working with her to further refine the process for 2014. The considerable charity and community work of FWSA clubs and councils is further detailed by Sigrid on pages 42-43.

The Councils’ Man and Woman of the Year is a wonderful way for clubs and councils to honor their outstanding volunteers. Headed by Donn Bryant, the program involves councils selecting candidates from their member clubs to be honored at the FWSA Convention where the Councils’ Man and Woman are named. The 2013 council candidates and the FWSA winners are highlighted on pages 34-35.

Most of us joined a ski club to meet and socialize with active people who like to ski and to take advantage of group ski trips to interesting resorts, as well as other socializing. The mission of Council Services is to provide FWSA ski clubs with tools to enhance their success. We welcome ideas and feedback from club members and those who are reading this publication who would like to have more information about our clubs and FWSA. You can contact me at jo_simpson@sbcglobal.net. I look forward to hearing from you.

National Ski Council Federation Brings Councils & Clubs Together Nationwide

by Jo Simpson
Public Affairs Chair, NSCF / Sierra Council President

The Far West Ski Association and member councils enjoy the benefits of belonging to the National Ski Council Federation. The Federation provides Far West councils an opportunity to interact with ski councils in the southern, central and eastern United States to exchange ideas and receive valuable information for our member clubs. The Federation meetings are structured to provide a forum for council and ski industry representatives to discuss subjects of mutual interest. The 2013 meeting was hosted by Grand Targhee Ski Resort in Wyoming September 18-22.

The Federation provides a wide variety... of benefits to its members. Check with your ski council to see if they are members of the Federation. The Members Only section of the Federation website contains a resource center with templates for by-laws, requests for proposal for trip bids, club officer job descriptions and other documents that clubs can adapt to meet their unique needs. The user name and password for the Members Only section are available from council presidents. The website also offers members a variety of attractive discounts on items such as ski rentals, lodging, car rentals, and a variety of ski gear. The discount listing is also located in the Members Only section of the website.

The Federation launched a completely renovated website along with an updated logo. The site has expanded information and improved navigation. Check it out!

The Federation was formed in 1999 to provide councils an opportunity to exchange information and to discuss among themselves and with the ski industry important issues that impact clubs and councils throughout the United States.

The Federation elects officers every two years. The current officers are: President, Joe Harvis (New Jersey Ski Council); Vice President, Dennis Heffley (Bay Area Snow Sports Council); Treasurer, Cheryle Mann (Texas Ski Council); Secretary, Lisa Beregi (Crescent Ski Council – Eastern U.S.). Like FWSA, the Federation is completely operated by volunteers.

For detailed information regarding the NSCF, including participating councils and member benefits, please visit our website at www.skifederation.org.

The Annual NSCF Meeting was held in Grand Targhee, Wyoming. The FWSA delegates were: Sandra Knapp, President, LAC; Laura Kennedy, Representative for SDCSC; Judy Thurman, President, OC; Jo Simpson, President, Sierra; Linda Scott, President, FWSA; Maria Hancoch, ISC. (Intermountain) Back Row: Tim Avedovech, Arizona; Bob Ellis, President, FWRA; Eric Hancoch, ISC; and Dennis Heffley, President, BAC and Vice-President, NSCF.

The Far West Skier's Guide is Available Through Clubs; or Become a Direct Member by Mary Azevedo
Vice-President of Membership, FWSA

There are many benefits to membership, whether it is through your ski club or as a direct member. Besides the extensive world-wide travel opportunities, members can participate in the annual FWSA Convention held in different locations throughout the west. At the Convention, there is a Travel Expo where attendees can meet with resort representatives who can provide information about their resorts for future trip planning. It is a wonderful way to get individual attention to have your questions answered. Learn about recent resort improvements, lodging opportunities, closest airports, shuttles, the best trails to ski or board for your ability levels, favorite restaurants not to be missed, and anything important to you or your group. A club delegate speaks with Michael Green and Hannah DeGoy from Mammoth Mountain at the 2013 FWSA Convention Travel Expo, photo by Sigrid Noack.

Far West Ski Association has approximately 50,000 members in 13 western states. It is the umbrella organization over 11 councils. Within the councils, there are approximately 165 ski clubs. Membership in the Far West Ski Association has so many benefits. The varied programs offered are found in articles written by officers of the Association, committee chairmen, and council presidents, included in this issue of the Far West Skier's Guide. You will have a great time thinking of all different ways you can enjoy snowsports.

If you are already a member of a council club, you are automatically a member of the Far West Ski Association. The FWSA has a member benefits program, as do councils and clubs. These include discounts on ski equipment, lodging at ski resorts, and even discounts at certain restaurants in the ski areas. All you have to do is show your FWSA Membership Card, which is provided by your ski club. There aren't any nicer people than those who join clubs, and members become a close-knit community. With summer and winter activities that go beyond snowsports, you can have a very active life just belonging to a club. Many clubs offer kayaking, hiking, biking, and water skiing, to name just a few fun additional activities.

Another benefit to joining a club is that members carpool together or charter buses so you don't need to drive to a ski area by yourself. This doesn't just include weekend trips but mid-week skiing as well. Many ski clubs belong to a race league, and there are also junior races for children. If you are looking for a great organization to join, a snowsports club should be one of your first considerations. Refer to the Club Section (starting on page 66) of this issue of the Far West Skier's Guide for a local club near where you live. Club listings are by council.

Direct membership in the Far West Ski Association is available for those who have relocated, and for those nationwide who wish to participate in Far West travel and other organizational opportunities. Simply copy and fill out the application on the top left on this page and mail it in along with the membership fee.

As technology advances, the communications program at FWSA is moving forward as well, bringing you closer to exciting trips and travel, to the snowsports world, and to your friends.

The past year saw the release of a brand-new website, much easier to navigate, and with more and better content. If you have not yet seen www.fwsa.org in the past year, you should stop by soon. The new website is topped by an extensive menu of content, with a feature article, a calendar of upcoming events and travel, and links to great publications on the front page. It is constantly being updated with fresh material. Stop by often!

The next step for the website will be to add more interactive features, allowing you to create your own login, and bringing you access to members-only capabilities. We will be rolling out these features over the coming year.

Jimmy Petterson’s award-winning seminal work, Skiing Around the World was published in 2005 and sold out in 2008. In the eight years since it first hit the shelves, Jimmy has been working on Volume Two of his life’s work. At this point, he has skied in a total of 69 countries, and despite a broken neck last year that laid him low for a while, he is heading to Antarctica in November to gather material for the new book. As with his first book, Skiing Around the World: Volume II will take skiers to some of the most famous ski resorts of the world, along with obscure destinations that most people have never heard of. The new book will cover such classic resorts as Kitzbühel, La Plagne, Deer Valley, Aspen, Mammoth, Courmayeur, Davos, Grindelwald, Wengen, Ischgl, and Voss, but it will also take skiers to unusual ski destinations in Armenia, South Africa, Lesotho, Israel, Russia, the Ukraine, Scotland, India, Venezuela, and much more. Simultaneously with the release of the new book will come a long-awaited second printing of Volume One. The books will be available to buy individually or as a set. Jimmy hopes to have the book finished in autumn of 2015.

months, including the ability to sign up for and pay for trips and events, review the trips and events you have already signed up for and taken, and make automatic progress payments as payment for the larger trips becomes due.

During the trip, you will probably take a lot of great pictures. However, the video of you doing that backward flip is always on someone else’s phone! Watch for the upcoming ability to upload your photos and videos, and to share those uploaded by your friends.

Also, a key part of FWSA communications is helping you make the most of your memberships in your local ski club and council. Your club has some great trips, but maybe you live in Arizona, and a club in Washington is doing that killer bike trip in Europe you have always wanted to do. Among all of the clubs and councils, there are hundreds of great trips every year. Many clubs would welcome you on their trips, and would like to be able to let you know about them. Until now, that has been difficult, but watch for a coordinated way for clubs to share information about upcoming trips with members throughout FWSA, as well as an automated way for club websites to be updated with fresh news and events from FWSA.

And, that’s just the website! FWSA continues an extensive and robust communications program, including the comprehensive annual Far West Skier’s Guide. You will want to refer to it often. Also, look for the Digital Edition of the Far West Skier’s Guide on the www.fwsa.org website. It features even more content than the printed version since there is an extra insert online.

Our Facebook page has been very active, with lots of FWSA news, as well as updates on winter racing and sports from around the world. If you want to know who just won what, look for it on our Facebook page.

You can follow updates on our Facebook page or our Twitter feed, and you can also subscribe to the Far West News Flash to get an e-mail with the latest snowsports news. Look for the links on www.fwsa.org for Facebook, Twitter, and to subscribe to the Far West News Flash. And, for more detailed information about what FWSA is working on, be sure to see The Councilman newsletter, mailed to direct members and published on our website three times each year.

We are all very excited to be using new technologies to advance the communications program at FWSA. We have done a lot in the past year, and have much more planned in the coming year to help you connect with your friends, your travel, your local club and council, and FWSA. Check back often! ▲
Summer is winding down, and I'm sitting at my desk writing this article about an exciting new ski season about to happen in just a few short months. Soon, we'll be packing away the shorts and sandals, paddle boards and bikes, replacing them with snow pants and parkas, skis and snowboards. Boy how time flies! With that said, you'd best go through your closet and throw out the mothballs. Shake out the ski sweaters, long johns and turtlenecks, because we're going for a ride down the slopes of some of our favorite mountains.

Let's hope that 2014 will be a stellar year with more snow than we know what to do with! We'll be anxiously awaiting the annual Warren Miller movie to get our clubs all psyched up, heading to our local ski shows and ski swaps to check out some new gear, and preparing ourselves for another fantabulous year! We'll be looking for that chance to escape to a wonderful winter wonderland, which could include a trip to Aspen/Snowmass, Beaver Creek, Sun Valley, Telluride, one of the fine Utah resorts, the Lake Tahoe area, Canadian resorts and others.

Our clubs and councils travel to many destinations. Whether we go internationally, or choose one of our favorite US destinations, we have a lot to choose from. Information on FWSA trips can be found elsewhere in this issue. It should be a great year, indeed!

For those of you who may be unfamiliar with the many opportunities that Far West Ski Association provides our members, be certain to visit our website - www.fwsa.org and check out the many offers available through our Member Benefits program. We have 17 wonderful lodging partners who have generously offered discounted rates for our members, including Hilton Homewood Suites in Jackson Hole, long-time partner Columbine Inn & Conference Center in Taos, Phoenix Inn & Suites in Bend, Oregon, and our newest lodging partner, Casa Alpina in Rossland, B.C. We also have a host of ski shops and services offering reduced prices on ski rentals and transportation, such as Ski Set, located in 750 rental shops worldwide, as well as Ski ‘N See in Utah. To get around in Park City, give the Transportation Network a call, or in Steamboat, call Go Alpine to receive 15% to 20% off the shuttle service from the airport. We also have a new adventures’ partner, Nautic Adventures, providing us a 25% discount off their “Pro Deal” on sailing adventures in the Caribbean, the Greek Isles, and in the San Juan Islands. Also see the digital only insert found at www.fwsa.org. Check them out!

Our sponsors were out in full force this year, for the 81st Annual Far West Ski Association Convention in Reno. Aspen/Snowmass – sponsors of the Annual Far West Safety Award; Big White Ski Resort - sponsor of the Far West Council’s Man and Woman of the Year Award; Steamboat Ski and Resort Corporation – sponsor of the Western Ski Heritage Award; and Grouse Mountain Lodge and Whitefish Mountain Resort - sponsors of the Far West Athletic Scholarship Program. We’ve come to know all of these folks through their continued support and commitment to FWSA, and our many wonderful programs. For this, I would like to extend my sincerest thank you! If it weren’t for these sponsors, all of our event sponsors, and the large number of industry friends who participate in the Silent Auction and Travel Expo each year, we would not be able to put on the fantastic convention that we do! We enjoy hosting you each year at our Annual Convention, and look forward to seeing you in Bend, Oregon - June 12-15, 2014.

If you are a vendor and would like to join FWSA as a Member Benefits Partner, or get involved in a sponsorship with our organization, please contact me at fwsadebbi@comcast.net, or check our website at www.fwsa.org/members corner/benefits.

Beaver Creek is comprised of three separate and distinct villages. Beaver Creek Village is the main center of the resort where all the walkways are heated and clear of snow. The center of the village has an ice rink with boutiques, art galleries, the Vilar Center of the Arts, and bars and restaurants lining the perimeter. You access the base area to the lifts via escalators. Bachelor Gulch is where the world renowned Ritz Carlton Hotel is located along with many other homes and condominiums. This area offers mostly intermediate skiing and riding. Arrowhead Village is the westernmost entrance to the resort, offering the Broken Arrow restaurant with an outdoor patio.

Recap of 2013 Travel Destinations

Our FWSA International Ski Week March 2 – 10, 2013 in Innsbruck, Austria was a tremendous success! A total of 86 participants spent seven nights at the 4-star Hotel Grauer Bar which exceeded our expectations. Their overwhelming hospitality and high level of customer service was received by all. Innsbruck, the Tyrolean capital, hosted the Winter Olympics in 1964 and 1976. It has over 320 miles of trails easily accessible in 25 surrounding village resorts. There are nine major ski areas that provided varied terrain for all levels of skiers. After skiing at Axamer Lizum, Mike Sanford stated, “this was an excellent ski day with beautiful blue skies, we skied our buns off and it couldn’t have been better!”

Besides skiing locally, we organized ski days in St. Anton, St. Moritz and Ischgl which greatly enhanced our members’ ski experiences. Wanda Ross commented, “It was great that you acted on what our members asked you for. Skiing Ischgl was by far the best ski day ever!” Nicholas Boekdrukker, Manager for International Marketing and Media for Innsbruck Tourism, arranged a welcome party for our group in the courtyard of the Historical Imperial Palace including local musical entertainment and a celebratory cup of gluwein.

Many members took advantage of our guided optional day trips. Our first excursion included stopping in the quaint town of Rattenburg, known for their plentiful glass blowing and carving artists, then traveled on for a fabulous tour of the charming city of Salzburg. As David Jarl stated, “I’ve been on many day trips and our tour guide was outstanding. If you rate guides 1 to 10...he’s an 11”. Needless to say, I requested him again for all our tours. We made special arrangements with a private driver to take six people to Venice for the day, which allowed them to check this one off their “bucket list”! Several traveled to Bolzano, which is famous for the home of “Otzi” – a 500 year old mummified “Ice Age Man”. People commented on how fascinating and educational all this was, and that the tour exceeded their expectations. They then got a taste of the Southern Austrian landscape while continuing on to Vipiteno, Italy.

While traveling through some of the most spectacular Tyrol region countryside, many enjoyed a trip to the Bavarian Castles, which included the Neuschwanstein Castle used for the Disneyland Castle design. Before touring the castle, the group experienced the town of Oberammergau which is where the well known “Passion Play” has been held every 10 years since 1634.

On our final Innsbruck evening, some of us went to an Authentic Tyrolean Show which included music using several period instruments, slap-dancing, yodeling and lots of singing and dancing. Their family run show was not only authentic, but very charming to say the least. They even sang Yankee Doodle Dandy for those of us from the U.S!

On Sunday, 29 members left to either travel home or adventure elsewhere and the remaining 57 traveled by bus to Garmisch-Partenkirchen. About 31 members took the walking tour to get a lay of the land and learn the history and the culture of the area prior to our welcome orientation. We received a welcome from Peter Nagel, Tourism Director, who provided information regarding the ski resorts and arranged an outstanding offer for rental equipment for our members. Our farewell dinner was held at the charming Werdenfelserhof Restaurant, where we enjoyed an Authentic Bavarian Dinner with Tyrolean music and entertainment. After spending five nights in Garmisch-Partenkirchen, we traveled to Munich to receive a half day tour of the city then everyone was free to experience Munich as they desired until traveling home. Linda Boll-Dow said, “I’ve been on many trips, but I’ve never been on one that’s been a 10, 10, 10 in every aspect of the trip. I really appreciate the trip’s leadership in which everything is taken care of and done with such a friendly smile.”

FWSA 2013 – 4th Annual Dive Trip:

The annual FWSA scuba diving trip was held September 7 – 14, 2013 at the Sea Breeze Hotel on the shoreline of Corozal Bay in Belize. The participants enjoyed the spectacular diving, food, and culture of this English speaking country in Central America. Ramon’s Village Divers is a PADI 5-Star operation with great dive masters that led us around the second largest barrier reef in the world, seeing stingrays, turtles, moray eels, sharks, numerous types of fish and beautiful coral formations. Several participants also visited mainland Belize to tour the Mayan ruins and the wildlife sanctuary.
Our FWSA International Ski Week, March 8 - 15, 2014, will be in Zermatt, Switzerland with an extension from March 15 - 23 to Barcelona and Madrid, Spain. Zermatt, Switzerland’s best-known ski resort, has the highest concentration of mountains and glacial ice in the Alps; and the most magical and romantic car-free village situated at the foot of Switzerland’s most famous landmark: the Matterhorn. It is considered by many true mountaineers to be the peak of all peaks.

You will find a wide range of possibilities for the experienced skier and many wide open groomed runs for the intermediate and beginning skier. Ski in both Switzerland and Italy in one day when you ski over the peak to Cervinia. Combined with the spectacular natural beauty, Zermatt is a record-holding destination which includes Europe’s longest ski run with 25km, the highest-altitude sightseeing platform in the Alps, Europe’s highest-altitude cogwheel railway in the open air (no tunnels), to the Gornergrat at over 10,000 ft.

Some people ask, “Why Zermatt?” I tell them that Zermatt is one of Europe’s premiere ski resort! While it can be one of the more expensive, it is one of the most desired ski resorts in Europe. Our members will fly non-stop to Zurich, have an overnight there which will make our transition to European time much easier and our transfer to Zermatt more comfortable and enjoyable. We will spend seven nights in one of three extraordinary hotels with various prices to meet all budgets which are quite normal for Switzerland. Breakfast and dinner is included daily. While offering Zermatt, FWSA is providing our members an excellent opportunity to ski the World Famous and World Class destination that many have desired to experience, and those who already know it, love it and have been waiting for FWSA to return.

Our Spain extension will be an adventure within itself – a complete trip on its own. If you choose to not go to Zermatt, we’ll make arrangements to fly you to Barcelona to join us just for the Spain adventure trip. We will spend the first four nights in Barcelona then we will take the high speed train to Madrid for the next four nights. This will be an all-inclusive tour including charming 4-star hotels staying in unique and convenient locations. Most meals are included, giving us the opportunity to experience local restaurants with their cultural culinary delights. This tour is completely escorted which will include daily excursions that will be guided by local representatives. You will receive all the value and benefits of traveling to Spain with FWSA. This will be a unique, exciting and exceptional trip to be remembered!

NOTE: See the article about Zermatt beginning on page 56.
FWSA's 2014 Adventure Trip will be to South Africa, September 6-16 with an extension to Victoria Falls, September 16-19. This African trip will certainly be a unique experience offering much more than the normal gaming safaris. You will also travel through the garden route in South Africa, visit botanical gardens, travel through the winelands area to enjoy wine tastings, view native birds in their natural habitat, experience animal viewing while river boat cruising and so much more. While traveling to South Africa, Zimbabwe and Botswana you will enjoy the true African safari experience. We will search to see the “Big 5” and many other animals and native birds in the wild. This trip will be an experience of a lifetime and one you will always remember!

We will start our journey at the Kariega Game Reserve, which is a family-owned and operated private game reserve in South Africa stretching across 9,000 hectares of pristine wilderness in the Eastern Cape. The Reserve is situated along the famous Garden Route, making it the perfect South African safari destination to compliment a Cape Town visit and a trip along the country’s beautiful coast. This malaria-free South African game park is home to some of the richest biodiversity in Southern Africa, as well as two abundant rivers – the picturesque Kariega and Bushman’s Rivers. It’s a fabulous choice for safaris in South Africa, incorporating luxury safari lodge accommodations, magnificent game viewing, plus breathtaking vistas over the hills, valleys and rivers. Kariega Game Reserve offers the ultimate in authentic South African safari holidays. Experience close up viewing of the Big 5 – lions, elephants, rhinos, leopards and buffalo – as well as multitudes of other South African safari wildlife from the comfort of an open game drive vehicle.

We will also be traveling to areas such as Tsitsikamma/Garden Route National Park, the Knysna Lagoon to the Featherbed Nature Reserve, journey up the Outeniqua Pass to Oudtshoorn where we’ll explore the privately-owned, registered Nature Reserve and the South African Heritage Site, No. 59. We’ll then travel to the Cango Caves for a fantastic caving experience. After this, there will be a stop at an ostrich farm before arriving in Cape Town for our day tour.

The extension will be to Victoria Falls – one of the great wonders of the world. Victoria Falls, on the border, between Zimbabwe and Zambia, has some of the most breath taking views you’ll ever encounter on the African continent, if not in the world. The massive sheet of falling water and the spray it produces is mesmerizing to say the least. The nearby Victoria Falls National Park and the towns of Victoria Falls and Livingstone offer additional pleasures to the discerning visitor. The Victoria Falls is one of the most popular attractions in Southern Africa, where you can explore the African wilderness, as Dr. Livingstone did so many years ago. This trip will be a very memorable experience and one you won’t want to miss!

Online registration available.
Val d’Isère is situated in the Rhône Alps just three miles from the Italian border. leski.com

Why Do We Race?

by Bob Ellis

President, FWRA / Vice-President of Racing, FWSA

Why do we race? Because it is fun, exciting, competitive, individual, instructive and social. The Far West Racing Association provides races for any ability of skier or boarder, and then, we break them down by age, gender and skill level, so all of our racers are competing with other racers in the same category. On any given day Far West racers in any class can win in their class. In our races, we do not separate our racers only by age, but also by skill level, so they are not competing with past Olympians unless they work their way into that class. Most of us are weekend warriors that ski or race whenever we get a chance, and when we get a chance, we want to make the most of it.

When our racers go down our race courses, they are going down a run all by themselves with no one else skiing down the hill at the same time, and our racers can go as fast or slow as they want without being cited by a Ski Patrolman for skiing too fast amongst the public.

The thrill of skiing and boarding is the challenge of the slope of the hill and the speed we get while flying down the mountain. Racing naturally makes skiers and boarders better athletes by forcing them to turn where they normally would not turn. Almost everybody I have seen racing has improved due to the extra effort required by going down a race course.

Obviously, not everybody wants to race or enjoys the competition, but where else can you be the only person on the ski run for one to two minutes without fear of being run into by another person.

When we run our races, we try to schedule them to be punctual and efficient so we can get our participants down the courses as quickly as possible, so they can go off and enjoy skiing the rest of the mountain. We understand that their time is important, especially on a bluebird ski day. We also run several courses, not one course for everybody. We set a course for beginners and novice participants so they can progress at their own speed and move up to the next harder course when they improve.

We also try to schedule the race times so participants have plenty of time to make it to the courses, and we also base the start times on the predicted snow conditions. If we believe the snow conditions are going to be very firm in the morning, we normally will schedule the upper level racers in the morning when the conditions are more challenging, and the novice racers will end up getting better snow conditions in the afternoon when they would race. Sometimes we run into delays because of weather or timing, but most of the time, we are on schedule.

Our goals are to put on a safe event that is punctual, fun and challenging for the participants. We want to allow them to see their times immediately, and an area where they can congregate safely afterwards and share their experiences with their friends about the race course. We are recreational racers that enjoy the courses, the challenges of the mountains, the social aspect, and also receiving the awards for good results.

The Far West Racing Program is different from any other program in the U.S. It was smartly designed back in the 1970’s to encourage participation for all abilities and ages of participants. We also conduct clinics to help our racers improve and allow them to have a chance to practice.

Next year, we will be racing at Beaver Creek during the Far West Ski Week, and the Far West Championships will be held on April 4-6, 2014 at Mammoth Mountain. The ROKKA Race Camp will be at Mammoth Mountain starting on January 6 and ending on January 10, 2014. I encourage all of you to try racing just once. There is a very good chance that you will enjoy it.

The Far West Ski Association Athletic Scholarship Program is beginning its 10th year. The Athletic Scholarship Program has grown from a modest $1,500 and two recipients in 2004, to $15,000 and 18-19 recipients in 2013. The 2013 scholarships will bring the total awarded to over $75,000 and over 100 recipients.

The scholarship program was initiated to provide financial assistance to deserving young ski racers. Applicants must be junior alpine ski racers licensed by the United States Ski and Snowboard Association (USSA) and must participate in racing programs in the states represented by the councils of the FWSA in the states of California, Oregon, Washington, Nevada, Arizona, New Mexico, Idaho, Utah, and Wyoming. Scholarships are awarded based on financial need, academic performance, athletic achievement and community service. Additional information is available at the FWSA website: www.fwsa.org.

Why provide assistance to junior racers? After all, skiing is an expensive sport and shouldn’t parents foot the bill? Well, for the most part they do. For the younger athletes, the costs are modest. Most competition is at the local level. However, for 16 through 20 year olds, the competition becomes national and even international. Some examples include: the U.S. Nationals in California, the Nor-Ams in Canada, the Wildwest Classic Elite FIS Series in Wyoming, the Northwest Cup in Washington, the Alaska State Downhill Championships, and the Western Region Junior Championships in Idaho. It is not unusual for a top athlete to compete in 40-45 races during the regular winter season; virtually every weekend except during the Christmas holiday.

For a top competitor, expenses can reach $20,000 per season. These athletes don’t begin their training when the snow flies in the fall. Dryland training begins shortly after winter yields to spring. Summer camps, both in the U.S. and abroad, help bridge the gap between seasons. These camps typically run about $1,200 per week, not including transportation.

Winter training is in the area of $1,000 - $1,500 per season. Most applicants work part time jobs to help out. These athletes have to balance the demands of training, competition, and work with their academic responsibilities. Despite all these demands, the average GPA for our scholarship recipients has been consistently over 3.9. While our scholarships are modest in relation to the need, they do provide assistance that may make a difference for an athlete on a tight budget.

Funding for the scholarships is derived from a number of sources: raffles, auctions, club/council sponsorships, and direct contributions. The FWSA Athletic Scholarship Program has greatly benefited from the generosity of its sponsors: Whitefish Mountain Resort (www.skiwhitefish.com), a year around family fun destination; Grouse Mountain Lodge (www.grousemountainlodge.com), the premier choice in mountain resorts; Schure Sports Inc. (www.karbonmail.com), maker of the Karbon brand of snowsports apparel; and the Far West Racing Association. Their contributions of vacation packages, winter sportsware, and cash brought in over $10,000 in this year’s fund raisers.

Our partnership program whereby councils and clubs are afforded the opportunity for direct sponsorship of athletes accounted for one third of last year’s scholarship funds. Finally, the Far West Ski Foundation (www.farwestskifoundation.org), a 501(c)(3) non-profit organization, established to support and enhance snowsports in the western U.S., is becoming a valuable resource for encouraging tax exempt donations.
Lila Lapanja, on the Junior U.S. Ski Team, has won back-to-back junior combined titles at the Nature Valley U.S. Alpine Championships. She also landed a top 10 in both the NorAm slalom and super combined standings during the 2013 season. Plus, she earned a 15th in slalom at her first Junior World Championships. Lila is from Incline Village, NV and is a Far West Scholarship winner. She was selected for the US Ski Team, and for summer 2013, commenced the physical training program at USSA Park City and trained in New Zealand. She interrupted her Center of Excellence training for a brief round trip to Tahoe to graduate from High School with her classmates.

Another of our passions with lifelong impact on snowsports is the Athletic Scholarship Program, which FWSF augments along with FWSA funds with grants to racing teams hosted at ski areas. These teams provide logistics, guidance and coaching for their group of competitors. What makes this program different from training skiers for the national teams are the Foundation objectives for these junior racers. The Foundation is looking forward to these racers becoming positive leadership forces in their community and in snowsports. Advancing to the national team level would be a bonus. These under-18 athletes are selected from many applicants on the basis of athletic performance, scholarship and community service (as well as need). They are an investment in the future of snowsports and its role in communities.

The most time-urgent of our passions is the competition by our lady ski jumpers in the Winter Olympics in Sochi, Russia, in February, 2014. The team has been selected for the first-ever Olympic competition in women’s ski jumping. This comes four years after the jumpers were ruled out of the 2010 Olympics in Vancouver, BC. The Foundation was founded in 1964 to develop competitors for the 1968 Olympics and our efforts since 2010 represent a return to these roots. Training has started and a number of jumping events are in front of them before they get to Sochi. They are Ready to Fly! Almost all of these jumpers live and train in Park City, so these are Far West athletes. The directors of the Far West Ski Association and Foundation have launched the drive for organized skiing with $2,000 to WSJUSA (the USA organization for lady jumpers). But, the jumpers have a target of $100,000. Make your investment now, using the methods in the “how to contribute” box on the next page.

Our passion is for on-snow rehabilitative activities because they can have the greatest beneficial impact today within the snowsports community and can introduce persons with new injuries to commence a program of skiing as a major element of their restoration to activity. Their successful use of adaptive skiing and recreation will have a lifelong impact on snowsports. If they can do this, they can do anything. And, we’re all the better for it. This is one of four major missions of the Foundation. We’re aiming for annual events having the greatest impact to enable disabled skiers and then getting them on the hill to ski with all skiers.

Middle Photo: The Far West Ski Foundation dedicates itself to assisting adaptive snowsport programs like the ones offered by the United States Adaptive Recreation Center. The USARC has earned a national and international reputation as a model program in adaptive outdoor recreation for both winter and summer activities. The Squaw Valley Olympic Museum and Winter Sports Heritage Center proposed building site will be across the street from the Tower of Nations sculpture on the road to Squaw Valley. The above picture was taken during the opening ceremonies of the 1960 Winter Olympics, courtesy of Squaw Valley / Robert Reid photographer.

Our passion which will have the longest continuing impact is the Squaw Valley Olympic Museum and Winter Sports Heritage Center to be built at the entrance to Squaw Valley, the site of the 1960 Winter Olympics. The design concepts for the Center and the approvals from Placer County and the US Forest Service have been achieved. There could be several years of construction after sufficient startup resources are obtained. This will be the major archive for snowsports history in California and Nevada. US ski history started in California with clubs, racing leagues and racing over 150 years ago. The museum will house a Ski and Snowboard Hall of Fame. This is a multimillion dollar project and when completed worth every penny. It will be a learning center, a repository for donated private collections, an authoritative source for historical information and a worldwide tourism attraction.

The Far West Ski Foundation is a public benefit 501(c)(3) corporation and your contributions - investments - in these passions are tax deductible. The box below shows the ways you can invest.

The 81st Annual Far West Ski Association Convention held at the Grand Sierra Resort and Casino in Reno, Nevada, June 6-9, 2013 was one for the record books. Our host, Bay Area Snow Sports Council, did an outstanding job in drawing a large attendance. From the Thursday evening River Walk Pub Crawl to the closing gavel on Sunday, there were many educational and fun activities, special guests and Mountain Magic Moments to remember.

Our kick-off event was the Thursday evening River Walk Pub Crawl along the historic Truckee River. Golf enthusiasts had an early start on Friday morning for the 7th Annual Michael German Memorial Golf Tournament held at the LakeRidge Golf Course, with breathtaking views of Reno and the surrounding mountains. The adventurous packed their gear and participated in the White Water Rafting Trip down the Truckee River or ventured off on a hike along the Tahoe Rim Trail to the Mt. Rose Summit. Those who wanted a more relaxing day had a spa treatment with luncheon in a cabana by the spacious pool at the Grand Sierra Resort, or a “Fun Day” featuring Miniature Golf, Bowling and Pai Gow Lessons. A late afternoon “beach party” was held at the Grand Sierra beach adjoining the outdoor pool, hosted by Central Council, complete with a beach ball signage competition for prizes.

On Friday evening a Ski Club Happy Hour preceded the 28th Annual Silent Auction with close to $100,000 in ski, sport and adventure packages, plus equipment up for bid. A portion of the proceeds was donated to the Disabled Sports USA Far West Snowsports Program. Volunteers from DSUSA served as bid runners for the event.

After a brief, opening General Session, Saturday’s programs featured the Travel Expo, two new modules of the Snowsports Leadership Academy, Public Affairs Panels, a Far West Racing Association meeting, and an Outstanding Club / Council Recognition Programs panel. Industry partners presented bids for Far West Ski Week 2015 and judges convened to interview honorees for the Councils’ Man and Woman of the Year recognition program. A Multi-Media Presentation followed the Luncheon and special awards, with our Keynote Speaker, Candace Cable, a 9-time Paralympian. Her multi-media presentation was heartwarming and inspiring as we followed her life journey. The Awards Banquet Saturday evening featured volunteer and industry service awards and recognitions, plus dancing, with a special surprise dance performance.

The General Session was conducted on Sunday for FWSA business and elections. Randy Lew was honored for his outstanding dedication and service to the Far West Ski Association as President for the past seven years. Linda Scott from Cheyenne, Wyoming took over the helm as the newly elected President. Clubs and councils were recognized for their outstanding community service efforts, and the Outstanding Club and Council Awards, and Club and Council Communication Awards were presented.

This section of the Far West Skier’s Guide contains detailed information and pictures highlighting our many FWSA programs conducted at the Annual FWSA Convention. We are truly appreciative of the team of volunteers involved with conducting our annual event. We also extend a special thank you to our industry partners who support our Association by participating in the industry programs at our Convention.

Make plans now to join us in at The Riverhouse Hotel & Convention Center in Bend, Oregon June 12-15, 2014 for our 82nd Annual FWSA Convention.

Attendees at the Annual FWSA Convention enjoy many events and activities. Join friends from around the councils and meet new ones.

Mt. Bachelor Recognized with Tommi Tyndall Award

by Gene Fulkerson & Mary Olhausen

Mt. Bachelor Ski Resort received the Far West Ski Association’s Tommi Tyndall Award, presented to a ski area that has made a distinguished contribution to skiing. Accepting the Award at the 81st Annual FWSA Convention in Reno, NV on behalf of the Mt. Bachelor was Drew Jackson, Marketing and Communications Manager, and Terese Jarvis, Group Sales Associate.

Mt. Bachelor, operating since 1958, was formed 11,000 to 15,000 years ago as a volcano shield. The resort is one of the largest in the Pacific Northwest with 3,683 skiable acres, a vertical drop of 3,365 feet and rises over 9,000 feet. Mt. Bachelor is about to get bigger with a new chairlift and associated trails, replacement of some existing lifts, expanding snow-making coverage, construction of a lift-served downhill mountain bike park and additions to the Nordic trail.

This year, Mt. Bachelor hosted the second annual FWSA Mini Ski Week. It was a huge success with lots of skiing and innovative events offered, including a moonlight snowshoe walk.

In its fifth year, “Mt. Bachelor Charity Ski Weeks” provides assistance to several charitable/non-profit organizations in Central Oregon. Mt. Bachelor provides lift ticket vouchers to non-profit organizations that can be redeemed for a $25 full day lift ticket to be used during Charity Ski Weeks. Mt. Bachelor contributes 100% of the proceeds back to the non-profit organizations.

For the past seven years, Mt. Bachelor has supported the Ski-For-Schools Program fundraiser to benefit the Education Founda-
Mt. Bachelor has been at the forefront of the environmental movement within the ski industry. Over the past decade, they have developed a strong environmental presence that has brought them to a leading position within the industry. This year and for the past several years, the Ski Area Citizen’s Coalition recognized Mt. Bachelor as one of the top 10 environmentally conscious resorts in the U.S.

Mt. Bachelor’s continued support of the Far West Ski Association has remained solid. Mt. Bachelor ranks high among our industry partners in their financial support of the Association’s programs. This year’s Convention will mark Mt. Bachelor’s 28th year of participation in our Silent Auction.

It is in support of FWSA’s sponsorship program, Mt. Bachelor sets an industry standard of excellence. In 2007 they hosted the Far West Racing Association (FWRA) Championships. In 2008 Mt. Bachelor provided the beverage for the Awards Banquet. In 2008, together with Sunriver Resort, they hosted the Far West Ski Association Winter Board of Director’s meeting. Since 2009 they have sponsored the Pool Party at the Annual FWSA Convention, and they attempt to out do themselves each year. In 2012 they brought in a mechanical bull for the Pool Party! Since the 2010 Convention they have co-sponsored the Multi-Media Presentation with Sunriver Resort.

For its outstanding support of the snowsports public and Far West Ski Association, councils and clubs, Mt. Bachelor embodies the spirit of the Tommi Tyndall Award and is highly deserving of recognition as this year’s recipient.

Brandon Bang Receives Bill Mackey Award

by Gloria Raminha & Randy Lew

Brandon Bang, Director of Sales and Marketing for Big Sky Resort, Montana, received the Far West Ski Association’s Bill Mackey Award for outstanding service to the skiing public by a ski area employee. This award was presented to Brandon at the annual FWSA Convention in Reno.

Brandon has been working in the ski industry for over 20 years. Skiing, golf, great friends and the love of the mountain are the reasons he is a very happy long time local to Big Sky. He started his career at Big Sky after receiving a double major in marketing and management from the University of North Dakota.

During his years at Big Sky, Brandon has worked at the front desk, accounting, reservations and managerial roles before beginning his sales career at Big Sky as National Sales Manager in 1998. In 2008 Brandon was promoted to Director of Sales. Under Brandon’s marketing leadership, Big Sky has been a long time supporter of the Far West Ski Association and at the 2009 FWSA Convention, Big Sky received the Tommi Tyndall award.

In January of 2009, Far West Ski Week was held at Big Sky. This event was successful from the first sales presentation to planning to check-in to the on mountain activities, due primarily to Brandon’s involvement in every aspect of the ski week. Brandon’s intimate knowledge of the resort, positive attitude, big smile, handshakes and hugs shows he is genuinely friendly to all who are around him. All aspects of the trip (lodging, skiing, racing, parties, food, etc.) were outstanding.

In December of 2012, on the day of his 20th Anniversary at Big Sky Resort, Brandon was promoted to the Director of Sales and Marketing.

Because of Brandon Bang’s continued and long-term efforts on behalf of Far West Ski Association, our clubs and councils, and his outstanding support of the snowsport community, he is truly deserving of the Bill Mackey Award.

Snowsport Celebrities Entertain & Inform
Public Affairs Panel Attendees

by Mike Sanford
Vice-President of Public Affairs, FWSA

Mike Sanford, FWSA Past President, led the morning and afternoon Public Affairs Panels at the Far West Ski Association’s Annual Convention in Reno.

The topic “Snowsports Trends + Adaptive Sports” led off the morning panel. The session featured: Doug Pringle, President Disabled Sports USA Far West Division; Dave Ludwig, Founder of Hope on the Slopes and Ski and Ride for a Cure; Val Rios, President Sierra Nevada Chapter of the 10th Mountain Division Association and Past President of the 10th Mountain Division Descendants; and Bill Clark, Executive Director, Auburn Ski Club Training Center and Western SkiSport Museum. Topics included adaptive sports creation and support, how adaptive sporting events have increased and how they are managed.

The session began with an extensive brief conducted by Bill Clark on the proposed construction of a new Western SkiSport Museum at the entrance of Squaw Valley Ski Resort. This was particularly interesting to FWSA delegates because the Museum houses nearly all the historical data for FWSA, including race results and documents covering the initial stages of the founding and development of FWSA.

The session then moved to discussions on adaptive sports and event planning, along with information on how clubs and councils can participate, or even organize an event. Great information was provided by both Doug and Dave on their respective approaches to developing challenged skier events and the benefits provided, both financial and morale wise.

This session also covered how 10th Mountain Division veterans and descendants are carrying on the traditions of the 10th Mountain Veterans and how supporters can formally join local groups to help support current 10th Mountain vets and survivors.

The afternoon panelists again included Bill Clark, Val Rios, Doug Pringle and Dave Ludwig. This time they were joined by Wayne Wong, Freestyle Skier and US Ski Hall of Fame Inductee, and Billy Kidd, a friend and frequent FWSA conventioneer. Billy is America’s hero from the 1964 Olympics when he and teammate Jimmie Heuga became the first American men to win Olympic medals in alpine skiing, a silver and bronze. The discussion soon moved to how Wayne became a pioneer in Freestyle and his adventures leading to his world dominance of the sport. When joined by Billy’s tales of his competition experiences, including losing a race by a fraction of a second smaller than an eye blink, the room was spellbound. Delegate attendees were held captive by the stories and educational discussions of these two heroes of skiing.
We were honored and privileged to welcome our Keynote Speaker, Candace Cable, a 9-time Paralympian, to our Convention.

A spinal cord injury at the age of 21 in 1975, brought about a need for Candace to create social relationships with other wheelchair users, to feel connection and inclusion in society. She believes that “adaptive sports saved my life and defined my purpose.”

Her achievements are noteworthy and quite incredible. Candace participated in four Summer Paralympics and five Winter Paralympics from 1980 to 2006, winning 12 Paralympic Medals (8 Gold Medals). A member of the U.S. Wheelchair Sports Team (1980-1996), she was a U.S. National Track Champion 55 times. Also a member of the U.S. Disabled Ski Team (1989-2006) she was a U.S. National Cross Country Ski Champion 32 times. Candace has been the winner of 84 marathons, including six Boston Marathons.

A pioneer in the sport of wheelchair racing, she was a member of a small group that evolved equipment, rules, race director guidelines, endorsements and media presence to where it is today. She is currently a Skiing Athlete Representative to the U.S.O.C. Athlete Advisory Board, and a Presenter and Co-Creator of the Disability to Possibility Kit.

For all those who were in attendance to hear her story, and especially those who had the opportunity to personally meet and speak with this warm and generous person, you couldn’t help but know that “limitation” is just a state of mind, to feel inspired and motivated to make your own contributions in life.
The 2013 Safety Person of the Year winner is Gordon Lusk of the Mountain High Ski Club of the Northwest Ski Club Council. Gordon is a long time expert skier. He is the president of the PACRAT Race League and has been involved many years with safety in racing. His efforts have been extensive with supervising course set-up, course starters, and crew. He has presented course safety information and techniques to club members and has written articles on this. Gordon has also coached high school and junior racers and promoted the FWRA Scholarship program to these kids.

The FWSA believes that safety is an important component in snowsports. We recognize that the ski resorts do an extraordinary job of minimizing hazards. Ultimately, safety is based on individual responsibility and behavior. The FWSA Safety Person of the Year Program is sponsored by Aspen Skiing Company with lodging provided by The Gant & Crestwood Resort Condominiums.

Aspen/Snowmass has partnered with the FWSA for over a decade in recognizing the individual who has done the most to improve safety-consciousness. This fine award shows the Aspen/Snowmass commitment to promoting safety, and we would like to thank Mary Manning of Aspen/Snowmass for running this program for all these years.

The winner receives a six-day vacation for two from Aspen Skiing Company, including lift tickets for all four mountains (Ajax, Aspen Highlands, Buttermilk and Snowmass), six days of rentals and a half-day group lesson for two, round trip air and seven nights lodging provided by The Crestwood Condominiums and The Gant. We encourage each ski club to promote this fine award by nominating individuals who have contributed to snow safety through on slope activities, presentations, articles, etc. Details may be found on the www.fwsa.org website.

Ingrid Wichen Collects 2013 FWSA Western Ski Heritage Award

by John Watson
History Committee Chair, FWSA

The 14th FWSA Western Ski Heritage Award, sponsored by Steamboat Ski and Resort was presented to Ingrid Wicken in her California Ski Library in Norco, California on June 22. This is the third time she has received this award. The honor was given for her 2012 book Lost Ski Areas of Southern California, available from Amazon.

The award was scheduled to be presented by Billy Kidd at the FWSA Convention. The delay and change of venue was nevertheless a fortuitous one, with Grindelwald Ski Club members led by LA Council President Sandra Knapp, Louie Buhler and 10th Mountain Division veteran Bruce Campbell assisting John Watson with the award. The group spent the morning browsing through the amazing relics, displays, and records that Ingrid has amassed in her library. See page 73 for the photo of the presentation.

The Lost Ski Areas (LSA) projects started on the East Coast followed by Far West's Ethan Chickering launching the western version (WELSAP) in 1992. Wicken's book is the most detailed approach to LSAs and will be continued with her research underway for the LSAs of Northern California. The accounting for lost ski areas produces real historical treasures – personalities, partnerships, champions and championships – and shows the fabric and evolution of snowsports.

Did you know that Mt. Palomar had a ski area in 1967? Were you aware that skiing was put into operation by Tommy Tyndall near Idyllwild on Mt San Jacinto? The two areas had parts of one or two seasons of operation.

A year 'round ski area, Ski Villa in Carbon Canyon, opened in Orange County in 1966. It was a concrete bowl paved in plastic tiles and had a vertical of 280 feet.

A pine needle slope was operated by Sepp Benedikter in the summer of 1939. It was on a slope at the corner of Lankershim and Ventura Boulevards, the current location of Universal Studios. Both Ski Villa and the pine needle slope operated for day and night skiing. The pine needle slope attracted many Hollywood celebrities. But Ski Villa and the pine needle slope had only one season at best.

The winner of the Western Ski Heritage Prize receives a five-day vacation for two from Steamboat Ski and Resort Corporation, including five-day lift tickets to Steamboat, five days of rentals, half-day lesson for two and five nights lodging.

Steamboat Ski & Resort is celebrating their 50th Anniversary in 2013.
“SHELLY” LEONARD

Shelley Leonard received the University of Nevada Athletic Hall of Fame recognition at halftime for skiing and coaching. Nevada Governor, Bob Miller, presented the plaque at UNR’s Mackay Stadium, 1992.

What we cite here is but a microscopic history related to fifty years of contributions to snowsports of this heroic figure from Nevada’s Carson Valley, Arthur Chelton Leonard (1923-2011).

Leonard was both a ski and football athlete at Reno High School (Class of 1941) and the University of Nevada-Reno. He was headed for international ski competition when World War II changed everything. He volunteered for the U. S. Army and was ordered in 1943 to Camp Hale to train with the 10th Mountain Division, a corporal designated as a ski instructor.

At the end of the war, Leonard enrolled in the University of Oregon. Though he was proud to be called a Duck, the siren call of ski racing led him to Sun Valley, Idaho in 1947. In 1948, he was back at the University of Nevada and a member of the ski team until his graduation in 1951. The next eight years were spent as the University of Nevada Ski Coach, producing many skiers who went on to competitions and the ski industry. During this time, he organized the first sanctioned NCAA Intercollegiate Ski Championships held at Sky Tavern, originated the “All American Ski Team”, was honored as Ski Coach of the Year and led Nevada to two top five finishes in the NCAA Ski Championships. In 1992, Chelton was inducted into the University of Nevada Athletic Hall of Fame for Skiing and as Coach of the Ski Team.

In 1958, Chelton took the position of Assistant Sports Technical Director for the 1960 Winter Olympics in Squaw Valley. He was involved in the Competition Jury, was the Chief Gatekeeper for Alpine events and appointed Advisor to Nevada Governor Grant Sawyer for the Winter Olympics. In 1960, he was appointed Executive Director of the National Ski Association of America (now the United States Ski and Snowboard Association) and continued working with the U.S. Olympic Committee and as Chairman of the International Ski Competition Committee. Chelton returned to Reno in 1962 for two more years as Nevada’s Ski Coach. He was recalled to active military service in 1967 and later retired from the Army as a Colonel.

His last role was Director of the Luggi Foegger Ski School at Diamond Peak, Incline Village, NV from 1975-1990. His love of skiing, mountains and the Army had Chelton traveling the world with the 10th Mountain Division Association and the International Federation of Mountain Soldiers. For three years from 1995 to 1998, he served as Secretary General of the “International Federation of Mountain Soldiers”. He became lifelong friends with many of his former adversaries, including a German General.

“Shelly” Leonard founded the 10th Mountain Division annual biathlon race and he celebrated its 28th Anniversary April 19, 2009 at Auburn Ski Club. In 2007, he received the Wendell Robie Award from Auburn Ski Club. In 2009 at Auburn Ski Club. In 2007, he received the Wendell Robie Award from Auburn Ski Club. DOUG PRINGLE

Doug Pringle is a ground breaking pioneer for disabled sports and a tireless innovator and organizational developer of services to the disabled. And he is adding further to his four decades of service to the expanding disabled community.

Doug Pringle, USMA (West Point) Class of ‘67, arrived that same year in Vietnam. Three months later, he lost most of his right leg in combat. His long rehabilitation reinforced his determination to continue his recreational activities despite his handicap. He found that there were but three amputee ski clubs in the USA so he and 13 other amputees organized and raced at Donner Summit in 1969. They called it a National Amputee Championship. This was his initial point for what is now Disabled Sports USA. It all began on snow. And, Doug Pringle has been central in the evolution of disabled sports in the USA.

Forty years ago, many of the wounded from the Vietnam War became involved in skiing because major military hospitals were including the sport as part of rehabilitation training. Pringle got hooked on skiing through his participation in the National Handicapped Sports and Recreation Association (NHSRA).
He became its President in 1970. He further expanded the network to 25 chapters over the next six years. As a member of the Professional Ski Instructor’s Association (PSIA), he expanded Learn to Ski clinics and authored numerous manuals about disabled skiing. In 1988, PSIA voted to recognize NHSRA’s Adaptive Ski Instructor Certification program. In 1994, NHSRA was renamed Disabled Sports USA (DSUSA), now with nationwide reach. Doug Pringle was the President of the founding chapter and is the current President of DSUSA Far West, the founding chapter.

Today, DSUSA serves over 60,000 youth, wounded warriors and adults annually in over 30 different sports, through a nationwide network of over 100 community-based chapters in 37 states. Disabilities include those with visual impairments, amputations, spinal cord injury, multiple sclerosis, head injury, cerebral palsy, other neuromuscular/orthopedic conditions, dwarfism, autism and related intellectual disabilities. DSUSA offers over 40 different sports including alpine and Nordic skiing, snowboarding, biathlon, kayaking, water skiing, sailing, scuba, surfing, rafting, outrigger canoeing, fishing, hiking, golf, athletics, archery, cycling, running/wheeling, rock climbing, equestrian and others. These sports opportunities transform participants, highlighting the potential in each, embodied in the DSUSA motto “If I can do this, I can do anything!”

DSUSA is recognized for its pioneering role in developing physical fitness programs for people with disabilities, advocacy for and provision of adaptive programs, development of specialized equipment and its advocacy for people with disabilities in sports and recreation. It all began on snow with 13 amputee skiers who refused to be discouraged. Doug Pringle was there at the beginning.

Vern Sprock, a dedicated outdoorsman, bought Sierra Ski Ranch with its two rope tows in 1953. Vern Sprock was one of the last of the area resort founders who did it on his own - in his own way. In the 40 years of the Sierra Ski Ranch, it was noted for its offerings of affordable family and weekend packages and a number of imaginative innovations, as well.

The tradition begun by Sprock was to provide a great value on legendary terrain. Sierra Ski Ranch was a family affair with Vern, his wife Bobbie and children Kathy and Peter. Vern had the dreams and the vision. He and Bobbie worked side by side to make them a reality. Kathy and Peter started at a young age with their assigned jobs. Vern and his late wife Bobbie and their children, Kathy and Peter, made an indelible imprint on snowsports.

Starting with the tows, he proceeded to expand the lift capability at the Ranch to three rope tows and two Poma lifts. The venture had trying days ahead. Caltrans required that all the gates to the Huckleberry area were opened in 1953. The backcountry gates to the Huckleberry area were opened in 2001.

Vern Sprock’s last big challenge was his 1988 proposal to the USFS for a 3-phase, 10-year plan for the Sierra Ski Ranch. The proposed 1988 Huckleberry Base Area would include 11 ski lifts, 1 tram, 1 day lodge, 2 hotels, 200 condominiums, 2 service stations and other infrastructure. This project was scouted out by Vern, the USFS District Rangers and others. In the hearings and media leading up to the ultimate rescission by the USFS, local groups such as “Friends of the Echo Summit” brought the spotted owl into the discussions. There was no known outcome to a study of the owl’s habitat nor a timeline for its completion. This situation, while not fatal for the ranch, made its future course indefinite.

When Sprock sold to Fibreboard in 1993, the Ranch had nine chairlifts. The backcountry gates to the Huckleberry area were opened in 2001.

The Sprock family has moved on. But their four decade heart and soul investment is a testament to perseverance and a family approach to area services. Snowsports is indebted to Vern Sprock for his operation of Sierra Ski Ranch from humble beginnings in 1953, through trying times and circumstances, to 1993 when it was sold to become what we now know as Sierra at Tahoe. The family was there at the sale.
FWSA is very proud to have so many clubs and councils actively supporting a huge variety of charities. To recognize our ski clubs and ski councils’ efforts, the Far West Ski Association established the “Charity and Community Service Recognition” program seven years ago. By openly recognizing so many groups of our FWSA family annually at the FWSA Convention, we also hope to encourage others to become more involved with charity activities and donations.

FWSA and its 11 participating ski councils have always been committed to supporting charitable giving and volunteerism. Through these generous donations and volunteer services of our individual members in clubs and councils, we hope to enhance the quality of life within our communities.

This year, for the first time, we have two separate categories of recognition: Our most outstanding ski clubs and our most outstanding ski councils. Four ski clubs and three councils took the time to apply for this wonderful “Charity and Community Service Recognition”. Congratulations to the members of these clubs and councils, their presidents, and their charity program organizers. These are wonderful groups selflessly supporting many charity activities. The decision to pick the best of the best is always a challenge for our judges.

Congratulations to Fresno Ski Club of Central Council of California for winning the 7th annual FWSA “Charity and Community Service Recognition”. The winning club received a $300 FWSA check, which Fresno Ski Club donated to one of their favorite charities, Special Olympics of Northern California. This past year, Fresno Ski Club members were involved with many wonderful community programs. As described by president Scott Knutson: “Members volunteered as coaches during the Special Olympics Winter Games at our local ski resort, China Peak. Coaches were responsible for their athletes from the time they arrived at the resort, during warm-up runs, on-mountain lunch, during races, and assisting back to the bus with all their equipment, hopefully! Our volunteers enjoyed the honor of mentoring the winners at their awards dinner. All those who participated agreed the experience was priceless! We definitely have established a lasting relationship with Special Olympics beyond the event. All volunteer members have expressed interest in continuing working with the athletes during the summer, as they pursue ‘break the barriers’, swimming, bowling, etc.”

Another charitable event for Fresno Ski Club is the annual Live & Silent Auction held at the Shriners Hall to provide funds to transport children to the hospital for treatment. “Help a Hero” is another charity, which Fresno Ski Club members enjoy supporting by sending care packages to our troops in Afghanistan, through the Palmisano Care Package Project. They sent hand warmers, foot warmers, body warmers, knit hats, and playing cards, as a moral boost and to keep our troops warm! Yet another major charity event for this ski club was the annual Ski Swap & Sale, now in its 40th year! Funds raised were donated to Special Olympics. This year, the event exploded into a Community Ski Fair, with booths set up by many other groups: China Peak, Badger Pass, REI, Sunglass Hut, Scottish Rite, Pet Rescue, and a mini theatre showing ski movies and club activities!

Members also designed special clocks to donate to China Peak Ski Resort. The clocks had three logos: US Forest Service, China Peak Resort, and Fresno Ski Club. What a great way to continue good will between their ski club, the local resort and the Forest Service. The Fresno Ski Club has only 139 members! What an amazing group of people. Thank you and congratulations to Fresno Ski Club members for doing such phenomenal charity work.

The winner of our new FWSA Ski Council Recognition is Los Angeles Council of Ski Clubs. Thank you for supporting so many charities. A very special thank you to LAC for donating their $100 FWSA check to their favorite charity “The Unrecables, Los Angeles Chapter of Disabled Sports USA”.

At the annual FWSA Convention, the top three clubs and the top council winners are asked to prepare a photo display board to show our delegates and industry friends just how much FWSA members care, and how much we do for others! The charity display boards were very impressive. A big thank you to our club finalists for all their involvement with charitable organizations. Modesto Ski Club of Bay Area Snow Sports Council donated their $100 check to the American Heart Association, and Single Ski Club of Los Angeles Council of Ski Clubs donated their $100 award to the Mammoth Mountain Community Foundation. Congratulations and a great big THANK YOU to all the applicants and to the club members who work so hard to support their favorite charities.

Thank you also to the other club and councils, who are very much involved with community service activities and took the time to apply for this special FWSA recognition: Torrey Pines Ski Club of San Diego Council of Several Sports Related Charities are Favorite FWSA Beneficiaries

- Many FWSA ski clubs enjoy being involved with Special Olympics, whose mission is to provide year-round sports training and athletic competition in a variety of Olympic-type sports for children and adults with intellectual disabilities, giving them continuing opportunities to develop physical fitness, demonstrate courage, experience joy and participate in a sharing of gifts, skills and friendship with their families, other Special Olympics athletes and the community. [http://specialolympics.org]

Another FWSA favorite organization is Disabled Sports USA, whose mission is to provide national leadership and opportunities for individuals with disabilities to develop independence, confidence, and fitness through participation in community sports, recreation and educational programs. One of the great programs of DSUSA is Warfighter Sports which offers sports rehabilitation programs in military hospitals and communities across the U.S. through a nationwide network of over 100 community-based chapters. The program offers more than 30 winter and summer adaptive sports including skiing, snowboarding, cycling, wheelchair basketball, watersports and more. [http://dsusa.org] or [http://www.warfightersports.org].

Can Do MS is another wonderful charity and close to FWSA’s heart. One of FWSA’s major awards is named after its founder, Jimmie Heuga. Can Do MS leads the way with empowering people and families living with MS to transform and improve their quality of life. Heuga’s vision was that everyone living with MS has the power to live full lives. [http://www.mscando.org].

The United States Adaptive Recreation Center, was founded to ensure that access to skiing is available to people with all types of disabilities. The USARC believes people are empowered when they undertake and succeed at challenging outdoor recreation. The organization established the first full-time on-site adaptive ski school in Southern California at Bear Mountain Resort. Adaptive watersports and summer camping programs were added and continue to evolve. [www.usarc.org]

It’s all here. Why aren’t you?
The Public Affairs portfolio of programs is designed to present the positions of the FWSA to the outside world. As “The Voice of the Western Skier”, FWSA has been very active in a whole host of areas that affect ski area development, safety, volunteer liability, transportation, taxation, ski history and consumer advocacy. Topics such as airline baggage rules, discounts for season passes, news about ski country direct airline routes and tendencies of areas to develop along the lines of the European ski village environment are of interest to our membership and to Far West Skier’s Guide readership. We also work to better educate our members in areas such as the impact of changing demographics and the need for increased diversity, snowsports industry efforts like ski area growth, regulatory efforts to modernize state ski laws, expanding snowmaking capabilities, development of e-commerce in the industry, resort developments, consumer ten- dencies, the Forest Service’s involvement in area development and the need to meet visitor’s various needs based on demographics such as age, capabilities, interests and other needs.

The width and breadth of the FWSA’s Public Affairs Program is significant and FWSA is committed to doing all we can in communicating issues, educating our membership and reaching out to the general public on a huge range of issues and interests that might be included under the large umbrella of topics that could be considered “public affairs”. Some of the issues we focus on are area development, consumer advocacy, safety, transportation, history and equipment and clothing manufacturing.

In summary, the width and breadth of the FWSA’s Public Affairs Program is significant and the FWSA is committed to doing its part in communicating with membership and partners and educating membership on the wide and interesting variety of Public Affairs topics.

We strongly encourage all skiers and boarders to get involved in issues that might affect them either directly or even indirectly by keeping abreast of industry news, government activities, area developments, legislation, public meetings, consumer advocacy and trends, safety issues and product developments and introductions. To keep abreast of issues and stay informed about relevant news visit www.fwsa.org and subscribe to the Far West News Flash (no-cost monthly electronic newsletter).

Of course, probably the most prominent and written about topic in Public Affairs is ski area development. This would include ski area development, expansion or enhancement, proposed new ski areas and the preservation of potential new areas for future development or recreational use. Actions in these areas affect all snowsports enthusiasts. Some have long term implications and can require regional activity. Still others can involve multiple partners, can take a long time to be brought to fruition and can be tedious, requiring long term activities, devotion and patience. This process can also be very costly. Generally the process involves county, city and even state governments, the US Forest service, community organizations, area operators or permittees and an ever-changing spectrum of organizations interested in protection of the environment. Visiting the Council on Environmental Quality web page at http://ceq.hhs. doe.gov/ can lead you to further information on the National Environmental Policy Act (NEPA).

Area Development

Generally, FWSA maintains an active network of “issue watchers” in strategic areas of the western states. We watch closely the expansion issues and efforts that affect the areas we cover with our clubs and councils. But that doesn’t mean we don’t watch developments in all the US areas, and we also keep a close eye on ski areas throughout the world. Our club members are well informed on developments no matter where they are occurring.

Loveland Master Plan Accepted - The U.S. Forest Service has accepted the master development plan for Loveland Ski Area, setting the outline for expansion and improvement plans for the next decade or more. Specific projects included in the plan will still be required to undergo the usual environmental approval process, but the decision indicates that the proposed developments are aligned with the Forest Service’s resource management plan. Among the elements of the plan are improvements to the beginner experience, upgrades to improve circulation between the two sections of the resort, which is bisected by U.S. 6, and the potential for initiating backcountry guide services and facilities.

Mammoth Plots New Future for June - June Mountain is set to reopen next December after a year in mothballs. The resort will continue to target families and entry-level skiers and snowboarders, with tentative plans for lift and snowmaking upgrades down the road. “Next winter, we look forward to bringing skiers and snowboarders a great on-mountain experience while also planning for June’s future, including the possibility of a new lift and enhanced snowmaking,” June Mountain general manager Carl Williams said in a release. CEO Rusty Gregory of Mammoth Mountain, which owns June, told attendees at the national meeting of the North American Snowsports Journalists’ Association (NASJA) that the company will invest $6 million in a new chairlift for June once the necessary permits are acquired.

Historic Timberline Lodge Enters Pantheon Of Historic Hotels - The National Trust for Historic Preservation has announced that the famed ski lodge on the shoulder of Mt. Hood had been accepted onto its list of Historic Hotels of America.

Mt. Bachelor Gets OK for Expansion - Mt. Bachelor has received the go-ahead from the Forest Service for an improvement project that will take place over the next 10 years. Included in the plan are expansions to terrain, three new lifts, a lodge expansion, new hiking trails, a lift-served downhill bike park, a zipline network of “issue watchers” in strategic areas of the western states. We watch closely the expansion issues and efforts that affect the areas we cover with our clubs and councils. But that doesn’t mean we don’t watch developments in all the US areas, and we also keep a close eye on ski areas throughout the world. Our club members are well informed on developments no matter where they are occurring.

Whistler Blackcomb Plans $18 Million Lift Upgrade - Whistler Blackcomb has unveiled capital plans for an $18 million lift expansion. Whistler Mountain’s Harmony detachable quad chairlift will be replaced with a new Doppelmayr detachable six-pack. Blackcomb will replace a fixed-grip triple in the Crystal Zone with a high-speed quad.

Homewood Expansion Plan to get Further Review - Homewood Mountain Resort’s expansion plan has been put on hold temporarily. U.S. District Judge William B. Shubb ruled that Placer County and the Tahoe Regional Planning Agency approved the Homewood plan without considering whether a smaller (and less environmentally impactful) project would suffice, as required by law.

Crested Butte Produces New Master Plan - Crested Butte Mountain Resort has submitted a new Master Development Plan to the U.S. Forest Service. The plan incorporates previous approvals at the main mountain, along with adjacent private land development projects, new proposals for terrain outside the resort’s existing permit area on Crested Butte, and a much-reduced proposal for Snodgrass Mountain, which has been the source of controversy (and rejected proposals) in the past.

Northstar Submits Master Plan for Environmental Review - Northstar, California, has released its Mountain Master Plan (NMMP), outlining what the future holds with regard to on-mountain improvements and additional recreational opportunities at the resort. The plan, submitted to Placer County for environmental review, outlines mountain improvements proposed at Northstar over the next 10 to 15 years. The Northstar Mountain Master Plan proposes new ski terrain, lifts, skier facilities and additional recreational opportunities, as well as upgrades to existing ski terrain and facilities.

End to Arizona Snowbowl’s Legal Battles - After years of court battles, the Arizona Snowbowl’s legal battles came to an end last fall and the resort was able to launch snow-making for the 2012-2013 ski season.

Environment/Consumer Advocacy

The National Ski Areas Association serves as an important voice in all areas of snowsports. The NSAA is the trade association for ski area owners and operators. It represents 325 alpine resorts that account for more than 90 percent of the skier/snowboarder visits nationwide. Additionally, it has over 450 supplier members who provide equipment, goods and services to the mountain resort industry. NSAA analyzes and distributes ski industry statistics; produces annual conferences and tradeshows; produces a bimonthly industry publication and is active in state and federal government affairs. The Association also provides educational programs and employee training materials on industry issues including OSHA, ADA and NEPA regulations and compliance; environmental laws and regulations; state regulatory requirements; aerial tramway safety; and resort operations and guest service.

One of NSAA’s most notable initiatives is its Sustainable Slopes Program. In its 12th year, this program continues to improve and evolve and incorporate new initiatives that reflect emerging trends. Some 190 resorts endorse the Environmental Charter representing over 75 percent of the ski resorts nationally. These resorts have assessed their policies and operations using the principles contained in the Charter. Participating resorts are making significant improvements in their respective programs even considering variances in size, expertise, location and finances.

The Climate Challenge is designed to give technical support and recognition to ski areas that are developing carbon inventories, setting goals for carbon reduction, and measuring success in reducing their overall carbon footprint. The eight founding resorts of the Climate Challenge are Alta Ski Area, Arapahoe Basin, Canyons Resort, Jackson Hole Mountain Resort, Jiminy Peak, Mount Hood Meadows, Park City Mountain Resort and Telluride Ski & Golf Resort. They have inspired all ski areas with their efforts to reduce their carbon footprints. NSAA also conducts a Sustainable Slopes Grant Program utilizing donations from Leitwind and NSAA supplier members HKD Turbo and Brendle Group.

Ski areas across the country adopted an Environmental Charter in 2000 to address the environmental concerns of our industry. The Charter, commonly referred to as “Sustainable Slopes,” identifies climate change as a potential threat to the environment and our business. Although not a major source of greenhouse gas (GHG) emissions, many resorts across the country already are taking steps to reduce their own limited GHG emissions. The policy aims to raise awareness of the potential impacts of climate change on weather-dependent businesses and the winter recreation experience, reduce greenhouse gas emissions and work toward solutions that will keep both the environment and economy healthy.

The 2014 Winter Olympics, officially the XXII Olympic Winter Games, will be held in Sochi, Russia. The Sochi Olympics are the first Winter Olympics (and first Olympics altogether) for the Russian Federation, as the 1980 Summer Olympics in Moscow were in the Soviet Union. Construction in preparation for the Games has involved the building of new venues and modernizing the telecommunications, power, and transport infrastructure of the area. This will include the construction of a new Olympic Park by the Black Sea coast in the Imeretin Valley, with venues clustered around a central area.

The 10th Mountain Division (Light Infantry) is a light infantry division in the United States Army based at Fort Drum, New York. The division is a subordinate unit of the XVIII Airborne Corps. Why is 10th Mountain important to skiers you ask? Originally constituted as a unique mountain warfare unit activated as the 10th Light Division (Alpine) in 1943, the division was the only unit of its size in the U.S. Army to specialize in fighting in mountainous and arctic conditions, thus earning the division the “MOUNTAIN” tab. Today, the division retains its “mountain” designation for historical purposes and is organized as a light infantry division. Reactivated in 1985, it was designated the 10th Mountain Division (Light Infantry). Since its reactivation, the division has deployed numerous times to both Iraq and Afghanistan in support of Operation Iraqi Freedom and Operation Enduring Freedom, respectively. Why is that important to skiers? Members of the division returning from World War II started and built nearly every major and many of the smaller ski areas in the US during the 50’s, 60’s and 70’s. As skiers, we owe the 10th Mountain Division a huge debt of gratitude.

In addition to the myriad of expansion issues, we are strong supporters of responsible resort management and endorse the NSAA “Environmental Charter” and the “Sustainable Slopes” initiatives “Keep Winter Cool” and the “Environmental Charter”.

Ski Areas Prevail in Water Rights Litigation with Forest Service - The federal district court in Colorado recently struck down a controversial U.S. Forest Service water policy that would have required resorts to transfer ownership of valuable water rights to the U.S. government without compensation. The court’s decision affects 121 ski areas operating on National Forest System lands in 13 states, including Arizona, California, Colorado, Idaho, Montana, Nevada, New Hampshire, New Mexico, Oregon, Utah, Vermont, Washington, and Wyoming. The ruling will remove the controversial water requirement from ski area permits that were renewed in 2011 and 2012, and preclude the Forest Service from including the requirement in future ski area permits. The decision allows ski areas to continue to own and control their water for crucial ski area operations and guest services such as snowmaking, restaurants, lodging, and restrooms.

Ski Areas Face $1 Billion Risk from Warming Climate, Groups Say - Declines in snowfall because of global warming are shortening the winter ski season in the U.S. and harming the economy, according to a report from two environmental groups. In poor snow seasons, visits to ski areas in many states drop, and that has cost ski resorts $1 billion in revenue over the past decade, the Natural Resources Defense Council and Protect Our Winters said in a recent report. The winter sports industry contributes more than $12 billion a year to the U.S. economy, according to the study. “Climate change spells trouble for all businesses dependent on winter weather, from snowmobiling, snowboarding, and ice fishing to snowshoeing and skiing,” the groups said in the report.

Protect Our Winters Takes Climate Change Message to the White House - Protect Our Winters (POW) founder, Jeremy Jones, and executive director, Chris Steinkamp, visit Capitol Hill every year to encourage legislators to support climate change bills. But until recently, they’ve relied on telling the stories of athletes who have witnessed the effects of climate change or of resorts that have lost revenue as a result of unreliable snow. Last December, POW got the hard data they needed to make their case even stronger to the politicians who rely on facts and numbers. Jones and Steinkamp took those numbers to the White House where Jones was honored for his work on POW.

Ski Areas Honored for Environmental Efforts - The National Ski Areas Association (NSAA) has presented seven U.S. ski areas with its 2013 Golden Eagle Awards for Environmental Excellence including Homewood Mountain Resort, Alta, Brighton, Snowbird and Solitude ski areas, Greek Peak (New York), and Killington Resort.

The annual Golden Eagle Awards, now in its 20th year, are the ski industry’s most prestigious award for recognizing ski area environmental programs and projects. Awards are given based on three ski area size categories (up to 200,000 annual skier and snowboarder visits; 200,000-500,000 visits; and more than 500,000 visits).

Environment Policy Survey Lists ‘Best, In Resort Sustainability - The 11th annual Ski Area Citizens Coalition survey on environmental practices has Park City Mountain Resort in Utah leading in the ratings. Stevens Pass Ski Area (WA), China Peak Mountain Resort (CA) and Sugar Bowl Ski Resort (CA) also got 90-plus percent scores. You can find the complete report at: http://www.skiareacitizens.com/.

Ski Industries Association (SIA) sights snowsports recycling programs for keeping over 350 tons of used equipment out of landfills - Eventually every piece of well-loved snowsports equipment needs to be retired. In order to keep gear out of landfills and new gear on the slopes, SIA’s Snow Sports Recycling Program (SSRP) recycles worn ski and snowboard gear donated by consumers and retailers.

Over four seasons, SSRP has reduced more than 350 tons of used boots, skis, boards and poles collected from Rocky Mountain retailers and resorts into grinds that can be repurposed for other snowsports products. Nationwide, 68 storefronts are participating, with most in Colorado and Salt Lake City. In the near future the program will expand farther west to Boise, Albuquerque and Phoenix.

Aspen Employees Fund 13 Environmental Projects - The Environment Foundation, with primary funding provided by Aspen Snowmass employees, has made the largest grant in its 16-year history, donating $50,000 to protect 220,000 acres of Federal land from oil and gas development. The land is at Thompson Divide, outside of Carbondale, Colorado. The grant is part of a total $118,000 in donations made this spring to 13 environmental projects.

National Visit Numbers Increase in 2012-2013 - The National Ski Areas Association (NSAA) announced that U.S. ski areas tallied an estimated 56.6 million skier and snowboarder visits during the 2012/13 season. The results represent an 11 percent increase over the previous season. The previous season was one of the worst in recent history, when visits totaled an estimated 51 million, a decline of 15.7% from the 2010/11 record total of 60.54 million, according to the Kottke National End of Season Survey. This season’s numbers represent the largest year-over-year gain in 30 years.

Retail Sales Increase in 2012-2013 - The SnowSports Industries America (SIA) RetailTRAK numbers for August - March 2012/2013 are total market projections based on data collected from the Point of Sale systems of more than 1,200 snowsports retailers. The 2012/2013 season brought in $3.4B in retail revenues, up 3 percent compared with dollars sold during the previous season. By category, dollar sales in accessories increased 6%, apparel was up 3% and equipment sales were flat compared to the 2011/2012 season.

Google Adds 38 Ski Slopes to Google Maps App - The Google Maps app, available for free on Android devices and iPhone, now includes 38 new maps of ski runs and lifts from some of the most popular ski resorts in the United States and Canada.
Safety Update

The FWSA believes that safety is an important component in snowsports. We recognize that the ski resorts do an extraordinary job of minimizing hazards. FWSA supports an annual Safety Person of the Year Award, recognizing a club or council member who has contributed most to promoting on mountain safety through club or council efforts. Ultimately, however, safety is based on individual responsibility and behavior.

National Safety Week has now become National Safety Month! Now the month of January will be dedicated to an entire month of safety. Many resorts across the country participate every year to educate skiers and snowboarders about being safe, and to use common sense on the slopes. Aspen/Snowmass has partnered with the FWSA for over a decade in recognizing the individual who has done the most to improve safety-consciousness. This fine award shows the Aspen/Snowmass commitment to promoting safety.

Last season, more than 153,000 children and adults learned how to ski and snowboard through special promotions at ski areas across the U.S. as part of Learn to Ski and Snowboard Month! This month-long effort supports the government’s year-round “Let’s Move” initiative.

We encourage all skiers and ski clubs to promote on slope activities, presentations, articles, etc. Further details on our Safety Award may be found on the www.fwsa.org website. Skiing and snowboarding off the groomed runs and in deep powder is one of the most exciting and appealing parts of our sport. However, by leaving the groomed trails you are accepting the risk of a deep snow immersion accident. This happens when a skier or rider falls into an area of deep unconsolidated snow or tree well and becomes immobilized and suffocates. Deaths resulting from these kinds of accidents are referred to as Snow Immersion Suffocation.

NSAA has made available for distribution Tree Well and Deep Snow caution signs and brochures for resorts to use in their efforts to educate skiers and snowboarders about the hazards of tree wells during deep snow conditions. Ski areas are able to download the artwork and have signs made to fit the conditions at their resorts, either for on-mountain signage, printed in trail maps, posted on websites, or utilized in other mountain media.

Become educated on how to reduce the risk of SIS (Snow Immersion Suffocation) hazards through your own action and awareness. ALWAYS ski or ride with a partner within viewing distance. The website www.deepsnowsafety.org is an excellent resource designed to assist all skiers and riders in educating themselves about the risks and prevention of deep snow and tree well immersion accidents.

Remember: Safety is Having Fun Consciously

Trends & News Updates

SnowSports Industries America (SIA), located in McLean, VA, is the national not-for-profit, North American member-owned trade association representing suppliers of consumer snow sports with constituents in the retailer and resort communities. SIA annually produces the SIA Snow Show, the largest snowsports industry trade show and networking environment globally. SIA also provides data research, marketing products, government affairs representation, services and programs.

What's the story?

It is arguably the dream of every elite athlete to represent her country at the Olympic Games, the sports world's largest stage. For women ski jumpers around the world, that opportunity did not exist. Ski jumping and Nordic combined, which consists of cross-country skiing and jumping, became the only events in the Olympic Winter Games in which women were not allowed to compete like the men.

In 1991, the International Olympic Committee (IOC) announced that all future Olympic sports must be opened to both genders, however, this excluded the nine original sports at the inaugural Olympic Winter Games in 1924, including ski jumping. Female ski jumpers petitioned to participate in the Winter Games for more than 10 years, but were continually denied.

Why weren't they allowed to jump?

These skilled athletes ski down an in-run at nearly 60 mph and can fly the distance of a football field - and farther. But, women ski jumpers were told that jumping wasn't “appropriate for ladies...”. The IOC told the jumpers that their sport lacked universality - despite having more athletes and more countries competing internationally at the elite level than other Winter Olympic sports for women such as bobsleigh and ski cross. In 2010 alone, nearly 180 women jumpers from 18 nations competed in International Ski Federation-sanctioned competitions.

Vancouver Court Case

In 2008, Lindsey Van and Jessica Jerome, two of the most decorated women ski jumpers in the U.S., teamed up with 13 women jumpers from five countries to sue the Vancouver Organizing Committee (VANOC) for their right to compete in the 2010 Olympic Winter Games. The historic human rights legal battle resulted in the British Columbia Supreme Court declaring in 2009 that the IOC exhibited gender discrimination by excluding women’s ski jumping from the Vancouver Games, but stopped short of forcing VANOC and the IOC to hold an event for women. The women appealed, but the appeals court came to the same conclusion as the BC Supreme Court.

The notoriety of their battle to be included in the Olympic Winter Games caused many critics to allege that their exclusion was baseless and grounded on antiquated notions of female athletes’ abilities (not unlike what was said in the 70s and 80s about women marathoners). Before the Vancouver Games in 2010, Van held the K95 Vancouver hill record of 105.5 meters, a mark higher than any competitor's, woman or man.

Will they get to jump in the Games?

On April 6, 2011, the IOC finally announced that a women’s ski jumping event would be added to the 2014 Sochi Olympic Winter Games program. The women will have one event – normal hill competition. The men have three events (normal hill, large hill and team competition).

About Women's Ski Jumping USA

Women’s Ski Jumping USA, a 501(c)(3) nonprofit, is the primary support organization for the U.S. Women's Ski Jumping Team. WSJ-USA has two staff members and two coaches. It remains mostly a volunteer organization and works hard to raise the necessary funds to pay for the women's coach, travel expenses, training equipment and junior developmental programs for young girls.
After winning the inaugural World Cup overall title in 2012, Sarah Hendrickson wins gold in the 2013 World Ski Jumping Championships in Val di Fiemme, Italy. Jessica Jerome placed 6th. Hendrickson celebrates with teammates Abby Hughes, Jessica Jerome, Lindsey Van, and Alissa Johnson. Sarah found it hard to describe her feelings right after becoming only the third woman in history to win a ski jumping World Championship, so she did it simply. “The. Best. Feeling. Ever!”

“Ready To Fly” is a documentary feature film about Lindsey Van and her teammates as they battle to get their sport into the Olympic Winter Games. It premiered in 2012. It was featured at the 2012 FWSA Convention Film Fest held in Ogden, Utah, as well as, appeared in numerous other film festivals held throughout the U.S. and Canada. It won several awards, including “Best Feature Film” at the prestigious Banff Mountain Film Festival.

High Hopes Exist for an Olympic & Far West Ski History Museum In Squaw Valley

by Eddy Starr Ancinas
A founding member of the Squaw Valley Ski Museum Foundation

From the Gold Rush miners speeding down the mountain at 80 miles an hour, to an Olympics known to athletes the world over as the best ever, to the Sierra-bred Olympians – still speeding down the mountain at 80 miles an hour (albeit, on shorter skis) – Squaw Valley, the Lake Tahoe Region and all of the northern Sierra Nevada have unique stories to tell of ski pioneers, entrepreneurs and the region’s amazing athletes.

With that in mind, a group of local skiers and ski-history buffs founded the Squaw Valley Ski Museum Foundation in 2008 – determined to tell the incredible story of the VIII Winter Games and the 150-year history of winter sports in the Sierra Nevada.

The Board envisioned a world class museum of local, regional and international interest, with interactive exhibits, multi-media, archival preservation, oral histories and on-going programs for all ages. It would be housed in a building of architectural and environmental significance, with galleries dedicated to the 1960 Olympics as well as Far West ski history, plus a small theater, classroom, library, archive room and a museum shop.

A Far West Region Hall of Fame would permanently honor ski champions from northern Sierra ski teams, along with the visionaries and local legends that make up the colorful ski community.

Early on, the Board recognized the importance of location. With funds from the North Lake Tahoe Resort Association and expertise from museum planners, architects and a local engineering firm, the Board studied the pros and cons of “up valley” (in the ski area), mid valley (with view to the mountain) or at the entrance to the valley (high visibility on main highway). The final conclusion was that the Squaw Valley Park at the entrance to the valley provided the best location for an iconic building to house a Hall of Fame, a Visitor’s Center, the collection from the Auburn Ski Club’s Western SkiSport Museum on Donner Summit at Boreal Mountain Resort, and all the Olympic artifacts lying in garages, closets and cabins throughout the area. In fact, the Ski Museum Foundation is now in a race to collect, preserve and exhibit hidden private collections before they are gone. Realizing that this collection would represent not only the Squaw Valley Olympics, but the history of skiing from all Far West ski areas, the museum board determined that the museum needs to be an independent historical institution located outside of a ski area with year around access to all visitors to the North Lake Tahoe Area.

After a master plan of a museum located in the park was presented to the community, the Board learned that some Squaw Valley residents had concerns about a museum in the park. A community site committee was formed, including the leader of the opposition. After nine meetings held over twelve months, wherein the pros and cons of all locations were thoroughly examined, a final vote was taken. The result: 9 to 1 in favor of the park.

In December, 2010, the Squaw Valley Museum Board partnered with the North Lake Tahoe Resort Association to celebrate the 50th Anniversary of the 1960 Olympics at an Olympic Gala held at the Resort at Squaw Creek. When the MC asked the Olympians among the 600 guests to stand, an impressive number of past and present Olympians stood to a thunderous applause.

This show of enthusiasm for Squaw’s Olympic history was further demonstrated by the interest shown by the many visitors who visited a temporary museum in the Squaw Valley Village, managed by the Squaw Valley Museum volunteers during the winter of 2010-2011.

As interest in a Squaw Valley Olympic Museum grew beyond our local area and included skiers from all over California, Nevada and even foreign visitors, the Board continued with public outreach to Squaw Valley residents and members of the greater community. Although the Board promised not to “interfere with any of the present or planned activities and recreation in the park” (i.e. soccer, Pickle Ball and a tot lot), the county supervisor joined the small number of Squaw Valley dissidents, who continued to resist the possibility of an Olympic Museum in the park.

Thoughts returned to the site across the road from the Tower of Nations site. Although previously eliminated for its unsightly development, electrical wires, awkward easements and the fact that the property is owned by the Pouslen family; the Board agreed to re-investigate. A year later, having established that the land was not for sale, the overhead transmission lines could not be moved, easements across county land could not be changed; the Board hired a project manager and consulting firm to help them move on to secure the only viable location for the museum they had worked four years to establish (the park).

With a revised concept, a much smaller footprint on the land and a new design by San Francisco architect, Peter Pfau; the Museum Board, with the help of their consultants, prepared a booklet with a revised Museum concept describing the history of their project and the proposed new concept. Bill Clark, president of the Squaw Valley Museum Board, met county officials and supervisors, with the ultimate goal of presenting the plan at the Board of Supervisors Meeting in Tahoe City on July 23, 2013.

However, just before that much anticipated event, the county CEO called the Museum Board to a meeting to consider, once again, the Pouslen property across the road. He announced the county’s desire to work with the Pouslen family on creating a Master Plan that could include a viable site for the museum. The Board agreed to wait six months (January 2014), with periodic updates.

Meanwhile, the Lake Placid Olympic Museum welcomes 35,000 visitors a year. The Alf Engen Museum and the George Eccles 2002 Olympic Winter Games Exhibits in Park City reported 160,000 in 2008. An economic impact study conducted by the North Lake Tahoe Resort Association in 2008 projected 80,000 visitors to the Squaw Valley museum the first year, 100,000 the second year.

Will the story of the 1960 Olympics be told and displayed in one place for all the world to see? Will knowledge of our western winter sports history be made known to curious visitors, locals, students and historians? Will past, present and future athletes have a special place that recognizes their accomplishments? Hopefully these questions will be answered when Placer County either approves the park site or makes the other side of the road a viable option.
ZERMATT: WHERE LEGENDS MEET!

by Jimmy Petterson

When it comes to skiing, Zermatt was there at the forefront, having built the world-famous Gornergrat Railway in 1898 and opening its first ski school in 1902. It is the classic ski resort. It is difficult to describe Zermatt without using as many superlatives as a Mercedes advertisement. It is a legendary venue for skiing and well deserving of legend status.

Zermatt has the largest number of high-capacity lifts in the world. It is in the top ten worldwide in vertical drop with 2200 meters of skiing top to bottom. It also has one of the ten longest runs in the world, a 15-kilometer journey from the top of the Klein Matterhorn back to the village. (Editor’s note: One meter equals 3.28’.)

For those who prefer après-ski, Zermatt also ranks among the top ten ski resorts worldwide, with eight nightclubs and well over 100 eateries. To top it all off, it has the highest lift in the Alps, which takes visitors to 3899 meters, and some of the most stunning mountain vistas anywhere. One can view from here no less than 38 peaks that exceed 4000 meters, and the imposing ice of glacial seracs and huge crevasses add an additional intensity to the surrounding nature that can be replicated in very few ski areas.

Zermatt has all that, and then there is the Matterhorn! It stands alone at the end of the valley like a giant citadel. It is gorgeous, stunning, staggering, stupendous, spectacular, magnificent, awesome and inspirational, but that entire description doesn’t really do it justice. It is the perfect mountain! The mere sight of the Matterhorn towering over the end of the valley is enough to make a devout atheist drop to his knees, genuflect and pray. God must have apprenticed and practiced mountain building with the other million-odd peaks and precipices in the world; then, I imagine that once he was an accomplished master, he created the Matterhorn as his final work.

The legendary mountain naturally creates additional legends that bask in its aura and feed off its notoriety. Edward Whymper was the first to be touched by Matterhorn glory, following his triumph over the peak in 1865. Ulrich Inderbien has probably shared the spotlight with the Horn most often. Ulrich was a local lad who became a mountain guide early in the 20th century, climbed the Matterhorn over 350 times, and still put his footprints on the peak after his 90th birthday.

Despite the Horn’s apparent impregnable, novice climbers can climb its east face with relative ease, while the north wall has probably conquered more climbers than the other way around. French extreme skier, Jean-Marc Boivin has even made a descent of the east side of the mountain, but I was very content just to glide around in the shadow of this Swiss monolith.

Keith Johnston and Martin Söderqvist were my companions on a spring visit to Zermatt. With the five days we had at our disposal, we could only scratch the surface of the skiing possibilities. Zermatt, together with neighboring Cervinia and Valtournenche, has almost 400 kilometers of pistes and enough off-piste descents in between the marked runs to keep experts discovering routes for years.

Nevertheless, it is easy to come to some general conclusions. To begin with, Zermatt has great skiing for all ability groups. Nowhere in the world can beginners and intermediates cruise along wide boulevards of snow with more beautiful backdrops and vistas than here in Zermatt. The altitude almost guarantees perfect packed powder on the easy upper slopes of the mountains, even late in the season.

Experts will also not be disappointed. Despite its renown, there are plenty of uncrowded trails where advanced skiers can shift into fifth gear. The terrain is extremely varied. Off-piste enthusiasts can lay tracks among the seracs high on the glaciers of the upper mountain or weave their way through the trees on 40–45-degree glades underneath the Schwarzesee. Narrow couloirs and gullies that would be permanently forbidden terrain in many ski areas of the world are marked pistes in Zermatt.

The ski area can be divided into five general regions: the Sunegga, the Gornergrat and the Klein Matterhorn on the Zermatt side of the ski area, plus Cervinia and Valtournenche on the south side. Generally speaking, the upper mountain of the Klein Matterhorn and the Cervinia side provide easier skiing while all the other areas have a more mixed offering. On our first day, we were looking for good freeride terrain and Zermatt has an abundance of that. We warmed up with a couple of runs down the National piste, which has served in the past as a venue for FIS giant slalom races. All the while, we hungrily eyed the vast kilometers of steep, north-facing slopes off the back of the Gornergrat. We could not hold out for long, as the call of the powder was too strong. Before much time had passed, we found ourselves diving off the top of the Rote Nase, the last stop above the Gornergrat. We circumvented a few crevasses and swooped down through soft virgin snow.

Even the ride up is an experience on the Gornergrat, a cogwheel train that is, for all intents and purposes, a functioning museum piece. If one rides the train from the bottom, one should try, at all costs, to get a seat. If you are one of the unlucky standing-room passengers, prepare yourself for a full 40 minutes of standing in your ski boots, with your arm outstretched to hold onto a ceiling strap for support. You might not get your blood circulation back into that arm until lunchtime.

The Matterhorn stands alone at the end of the valley like a giant citadel. It is gorgeous, stunning, staggering, stupendous, spectacular, magnificent, awesome and inspirational, but that entire description doesn’t really do it justice. The skier is Martin Söderqvist.

Sitting comfortably in one of the seats, however, is one of the most pleasant ways to ride up a mountain. Bring a beer and a sandwich, enjoy the Swiss scenery unfolding outside your window and imagine what skiing was like a hundred years ago.

As I sat comfortably watching the Swiss Alps go by, I could not help but think about a cocktail party story from long ago. My parents’ friend, Walter Braun, described the Gornergrat experience of the 1950s, a time when the skiing public had grown much more quickly than the industry’s ability to increase lift capacity.

Walter’s description went something like this: “We stood packed so close together that the smell of yesterday’s evening meal emanated strongly from the mouths of most of the surrounding skiers. We knew about the long ride up the Gornergrat, but as a skier weaned on American ski etiquette, we stood no chance. A traffic light signaled the eminent approach of the old train by first changing from red to orange and then turning green, as a metal gate simultaneously began to slowly withdraw to allow us to board."

"Even before the amber lamp lit up, the train came into view and people began clambering over the restraining gate. They used their ski poles abrately to assure themselves a clear path to the train. The men bullied their way ahead of their families, threw down gloves, ski caps, rucksacks and parkas on every seat within arms length and firmly bellowed, ‘Besetzt! (occupied) Besetzt! Besetzt!’ Their hoarse hollers and a belligerent stare were generally enough to ward off any attempt by the meek to wrest away one of the half-dozen seats which each of these people was saving for his family and friends."

I chuckled to myself at this old tale and thought how much had changed through the years. The Gornergrat still had all its old charm, but Zermatt’s lift capacity has increased greatly over the years and most of the time, one can nowadays avoid Walter Braun’s trauma.

The Gornergrat affords stupendous views of the Monte Rosa (4634 m) and the Gorner Glacier, and the pistes are simple enough so that cruisers can keep one eye on the piste and the other on the wondrous surrounding nature. There is even plenty of easy terrain beside the piste for would-be powder skiers to practice in the fluff between the top station and the Riffelberg stop, about 500 vertical meters further down.

Below the beautiful Riffelberg Hotel, however, those who veer off the piste need full focus on where they are going, and even that may not be enough. Steep pitches and couloirs are situated perilously close to sheer cliffs, and skiers who venture too far to the south might find that their options are the last cliff jump of their life or a long hike back up. We miscalculated our line but realized our mistake in enough time that a mere half-hour hike got us rerouted into the couloirs rather than over the cliffs.

The north side of the mountain from the top of the Gornergrat is the home of the Kelle Piste and various steep powder descents between the rocks. This time, we scouted the territory carefully from the opposite side before venturing into no-man’s-land. There was more than enough of interest to keep us busy for the rest of the day.

Our second day was devoted to the massive amount of territory on both the Swiss and Italian sides of the Klein Matterhorn region. This is an impressive experience before one even mounts one’s boards. Our third cable car of the morning took us smack into the cliff face of the Klein Matterhorn. Swiss mountain engineering never ceases to amaze me, and this is one of the better examples of the remarkable Swiss mastery over their jagged habitat.

Shortly after one walks through a long tunnel and emerges on the south side of the peak, a sign beckons visitors to visit the Gletschergrotte (glacier cave). This is a worthwhile side excursion for everybody and a must if one has children. A visit does not take much more than 20 minutes of one’s time, and one can see a number of displays of ice carvings. In addition, one can view crevasses from the unusual underside, looking up.

The Swiss side of the upper mountain is a fabulous place for inexperienced skiers to hone their skills in a high alpine milieu. Skiing here will have them gawking and gaping in all directions. In this environment of ice and granite cliffs, gaping crevasses and the omnipresent Matterhorn, visitors can hardly help but feel close to the Creator.

The Italian side of the mountain down to Breuil-Cervinia and Valtournenche is a wide-open playground for intermediates. Most skiers with even a few weeks of experience are able to ski much of this terrain unhindered.

We were looking for something more difficult, so we dropped off the Ventina Ghiacciaio piste and into the untracked snow under the uppermost cable car of the Cervinia lift system. The snow had seen too much sun, and definitely provided a formidable challenge. We jumped-turned through the crusty fare until we finally met back up with the piste. By this time, we were quite happy to relax and enjoy the cruising territory that makes up most of this region. We replenished our carbohydrates with some Italian pasta before working our way back to Switzerland.

At dinnertime, we met up with another class act and legend who has had a long association with this area, Sylvain Saudan. Sylvain’s connection with Zermatt dates back to one of his early steep skiing expeditions, a memorable conquest of the Marinelli Couloir from Zermatt down into Italy. The descent has an average gradient of between 50 and 55 degrees, an inclination that may not sound that devastating by today’s standards unless one knows that the couloir dives down a full 2300 vertical meters!

We are not talking about threading the tightrope between life and death for a handful of turns, arcing into a tuck and taking the last couple hundred meters in a schuss! Saudan’s run down the Marinelli couloir was not only a case of maintaining his balance on a deadly face, it was a feat of endurance that makes most of today’s extreme exploits in the short chutes around Valdez pale by comparison. Then, take into consideration the difference between Sylvain’s 1960s equipment and today’s gear, and his accomplishments are akin to Hermann Maier gunning down the Hahnenkamm on a pair of cross-country boards.

The 21st-Century version of skiing, which spotlights extreme skiing as a competitive sport and has seen “off-piste” skiing reinvented, expanded and marketed as “freeride” skiing owes a lot to Saudan, who started it all back in the mid-1960s.

His descent of Mt. McKinley in Alaska from an altitude of 6200 meters down to 1900 meters was, at that time, the longest descent ever made. The father of extreme skiing was still at it in 1982, when his plunge from Hidden Peak in Pakistan was man’s first run from an 8000-meter peak.

Sylvain joined us for a raclette dinner and brought us up to date on what he is involved with now. Today, Sylvain no longer puts his life on the line in the pursuit of the extreme, but he also has no thoughts of putting his skis in mothballs.
“I am not ready for zee retirement,” Sylvain said. “How can one retire when one ‘as only been having fun zee whole life.”

Among other things, he usually spends November and December on the Zermatt glaciers, advising, instructing and imparting knowledge and ski philosophy to skiers eager to improve their technique. He can take pleasure in the fact that he has been among a few extreme skiers who have survived to tell their stories to a younger generation. During his early years, Sylvain basked in the sunshine of his accomplishments, but in recent times he gets his greatest enjoyment from sharing.

Unfortunately, Sylvain was on his way back to Chamonix, and we did not have the opportunity to ski with the old master. We were lucky enough, however, to have the head of the Stoked Ski School, Üli Bärfuss, to give us tips and guide us around the following day.

As the crowds headed en masse up the route toward Italy that we had tried the previous day, Üli guided us to the Schwarzsee section of the ski area, a region that offers transport on the new Matterhorn Express gondola and no more than two other lifts. As is so often the case, a meager offering of uphill transport disguised the fact that the downhill possibilities were disproportionately large.

Most skiers in this area putter around a couple of blue pistes that connect Schwarzsee with Furi. In between those unspectacular routes, however, are the Aroleid, Tiefbach and Momatt pistes, plus a wide expanse of ultra-steep tree-skiing. Most ski resorts would deem these Zermatt runs as avalanche gullies and rope them off. As is so often the case, a meager offering of uphill transport disguised the fact that the downhill possibilities were disproportionately large.

For the next three days, we were certainly the most regular patrons of this prime Zermatt real estate, as we skied laps among these virgin forest routes. It was almost too easy, requiring no traversing and no walking. We merely dropped off the main trail partway down the run and laid a long series of turns around well spaced trees, stumps and bushes. At the bottom, one long schuss brought us back to the lift.

We would have been quite content to continue this pattern run after run, but Üli apparently thought we required a bit of variety for our last day. He led us on the trail toward the Hörnlihütte, used by climbers ascending the east face of the Matterhorn. I got a good set of sweaty palms at one passage, as the path followed a narrow ledge above a sheer cliff. Once past this obstacle, the rest of the hike was a cakewalk.

Soon, we were carving up the powder, closer to the Matterhorn than ever. We felt tiny and humble so near to the base of this grand peak. The run was a fitting climax to our short stay in Zermatt.

For skiers who wish to be humbled by Mother Nature’s grandeur, Zermatt and the Matterhorn should definitely be paid a visit. If you happen to visit in the late fall, it could also be fun to ski a few turns with the other local legend, Sylvain.

If you happen to stand near the Matterhorn with Sylvain in the late afternoon, ask him to relate a couple of tales of his adventures. He is one of the greatest storytellers that I have ever met. As the sun drops low in the sky, you may notice that the towering peak and the short Swiss skier cast a shadow of equal length. As Sylvain’s story paints you a picture, you might just ponder if the Matterhorn isn’t listening as well, with just a touch of admiration, for it is normal for both parties to stand up and take notice when legends meet.

Has Technology Made Skiing Safer?

“In an effort to get more connected with the world globally, some have ignored being in tune with their present surroundings’

by Richard Lubin, D.C.

“The Snowboarding Chiropractor”, Safety Chair, FWSA

Skiing can be an activity of getting away from technology. …or not. Cell phones, MP3 players, GPS, are things that were not around much 15 or 20 years ago. For the most part, these technological improvements have made the sport safer. There are, however, offsetting risks. Let’s explore some.

PHONE USE AND TEXTING

These gadgets can be so helpful in locating emergency help or meeting up with your friends and family. Smart phones are small computers with GPS abilities, weather, traffic, and so many attributes making them a tremendous safety asset. There is an extraordinary number of safety studies regarding phone use while driving. There is little doubt that there are increased auto accidents because these activities take attention away. For this reason legislation has been enacted to help control these behaviors.

Usage is greater in the younger population. Studies show that teenagers with smart phones average sending about 100 text messages per day. People DO use phones even while they are skiing or riding. Losing focus or attention can lead to accidents. One can observe people stopped in the middle of the trail doing these activities, oblivious to the traffic approaching. This often happens just after the exit off of a ski lift. Snowboarders are famous for this.

MUSIC

Hearing is one of those senses that make us more aware of what’s happening around us. While having tunes can enhance the whole experience, it can also decrease your ability to hear anything. “On your left!” can be a great warning when approaching another skier, but only if they can hear. Occasionally one also needs to hear approaching snowmobiles or snowcats. Listening to tunes is so popular that it is not unusual to see all six persons on a ‘six pack’ lift with headsets on. What happened to talking to other people?

HELMETS

It is great that helmet use is way up. They are mandated by some resorts for their employees. Many new helmets have integrated head phones. The design of some helmets can impair hearing because the ear holes can be blocked. While helmet use has continued to climb, overall mortality rate has stayed about the same, an interesting paradox.

EQUIPMENT

Skis, snowboards, and bindings are all more advanced and better than in the past. Shaped skis make turning easier because they are curved. Many studies have shown that there are an increased number of knee (ACL) injuries with shaped skis. If one loses control and starts to fall, the ski wants to turn on its own. When the knee turns out it creates a lot of torsion.

It is one of the main mechanisms for tearing this important ligament.

MEDIA

We have so much more exposure to media than 20 or even 10 years ago. YouTube or other videos can be viewed on phones, TVs, tablets, or computers easily. On the positive side, one can see many videos on safety, proper technique, or other aspects of safety preparedness. What we usually see is fabulous, daring, and even dangerous, board or ski tricks that only highly skilled persons can do safely. If there is a big crash, that often makes that video even more popular. Skiers and snowboarders, often young ones, will try to emulate these fabulous feats which can often result in injuries offsetting the potentially positive effect that media can have.

SMART GOGGLES

One of the most exciting new developments in technology are high tech goggles. A few manufacturers are now making ski goggles with ‘heads up’ displays. If you have heard of Google glass, it is similar. A small monitor inside the goggles allows you to look at many pieces of information like your speed, elevation, the music that’s playing and even your text messages while you are skiing. These fabulous devices may make skiing a lot safer by being able to assess your position and even find emergency services. The liability is that it takes attention. Moving your eyeball takes about a 1/10th of a second and at least that long again to process the information. If you were skiing at 30 miles an hour, not an unreasonable speed, you travel 44 feet in one second. By the time you have a chance to look, you may have traveled eight or ten feet or more. If you were reading a text message imagine the delay. Taking your eyes off your task could be very hazardous. A lot of serious things can happen to you when your attention is diverted, even momentarily.

CONCLUSION

The issues discussed above have not been studied much with regards to snowsports safety. We do know that if you are distracted you place yourself and others at risk. The group that gets into the most serious accidents skiing and snowboarding is still the same demographic. It is males from their late teens through their 20s. This is also a target group of phone/text abusers. In an effort to get more connected with the world globally, some have ignored being in tune with their present surroundings.

Technology has made skiing and snowboarding safer in so many ways. But, like many other activities, there are offsetting risk phenomena that can pose safety hazards.

SAFETY IS THINKING FIRST
According to the National Ski Areas Association (NSAA) there were 477 ski resorts operating during the 2012-2013 season in the United States alone. There are numerous other ski areas throughout the rest of the world. It is almost impossible to detect where a photograph was taken when there is a beautiful action shot with abundant powder flying behind the rider. In fact, it can sometimes be difficult to detect if the snowrider is on a pair of skis or a snowboard, unless a ski pole can be located somewhere in the photograph. Focus the camera to a wider view and little hints can immerge.

How well do you know your resorts?

Many ski resorts are small local resorts that are popular for easy accessibility and convenience. The larger - especially destination resorts - have to distinguish themselves. They have developed their own personalities. There is something that makes them unique. Some are noted for their dependable snow and corduroy trails. Some are known for their wonderful cruisers. Others cater to advanced only snowriders, while still others have excellent learning slopes. Many resorts are attractive for their après ski activities. And, then there are those that offer the complete package.

Some resorts have recognizable landscape features within the resorts, or nearby!
Some resorts have beautiful water views, or identifiable by the shape of their peaks!
Some resorts have recognizable main streets!

These five pages have images from several resorts. Most of them are in North America - either western United States or western Canada. Some will be fairly easy to recognize since they are world-class resorts. Many of us have been to them! Others are located in other countries. Perhaps you've been to them on a FWSA International Ski Week? Some are less known, but are still unique. There is something in the picture that will distinguish them. And, there is no duplication.

How many resorts can you identify before looking at the answers? How many have you experienced? Take part in our fun quiz. Further information can be found on page 65. The answers can be found in the Digital Edition of the 2013-2014 Far West Skier’s Guide.
Some resorts have created interesting structures to get to the slopes. Some offer dramatic chutes, couloirs or rocky buttes.

Most resorts offer many activities to enjoy when not on the slopes. The mountain in the background should provide a needed hint to narrow it down to the which world-class resort is pictured above. Horse drawn sleigh rides are a very popular activity here! Combining the ride with a fine meal will make the experience even better!

Yellowstone: A Winter Experience Like No Other.

by Leigh Gieringer
Yellowstone, established in 1872, offers a winter experience like no other. The park is populated by a large variety of wildlife, including both grizzly and black bears, elk, bison, wolves, eagles and a number of other species, most of which are out and about during the winter months. It also provides the backdrop for a large number of geologic and geothermal features, such as geysers, hot springs, rivers, waterfalls and canyons, that are the iconic signatures of the park.

The granddaddy of all cross-country ski experiences, Yellowstone National Park enables visits to areas otherwise inaccessible by any other means. Daily guided snowmobile tours, snowshoeing and snow coach tours also allow visitors to experience and explore areas of the park that are not accessible via other methods or at other times of the year. The park, that many say is at its most serene splendor in the snow-blanketed winter season, is also less crowded from mid-December to mid-March, affording those who visit at this time of year an unparalleled perspective of this national treasure. Many of the villages and notable areas of the park can be visited during the winter months, although most are accessible only via the over-the-snow methods. Lodging throughout the park is available during the winter season, from a yurt experience at Canyon Village to hotel rooms to majestic private suites, all of which boast spectacular views nestled in the surreal surroundings.

Back to its earliest beginnings as a National Park, the area was mostly a summer attraction due to the active and unusual thermal activity. Winters were harsh, transportation and lodging were almost nonexistent. Wildlife was always abundant, and it is thought by historians that it was the hunters who first ventured into this inhospitable area. There were no hunting restrictions - until the U.S. Army took over park operations in 1886.

The hunters most likely entered the snow-covered lands on “Long Boards” commonly called Norwegian Snowshoes which were 10-12 foot long boards resembling present day wide skis, but much longer. They propelled themselves with a single long, wooden pole. Few visitors - ie. tourists - entered when the ground was covered in snow. With time, Park Rangers stayed through the winter months.

Eventually, with lodging accommodations accessible, and better ski equipment and snowshoes, plus snow machines of various kinds, more and more visitors desired to see the splendor of the park when it is blanketed in white powder.

Yellowstone National Park has five entrances, but access to them will be effected by weather conditions. The North Entrance is the only gateway into the Park for wheeled vehicles year around. The other entrances are only accessible by snow coaches, snow vans, snowmobiles and the park Bombardiers - teardrop-shaped snow vehicles designed to navigate Yellowstone's unplowed roads during the winter months - and skis or snowshoes.

With restrictions on individual snowmobiles being placed in more recent years, “muscle” powered activity has expanded. Nordic skiing and snowshoeing have become increasingly popular. However, it is by no means overcrowded since the numbers of visitors are controlled. The park’s serenity is maintained.

Left: Yellowstone National Park has a large geothermal ecosystem and (Lower:) is home to abundant and diverse wildlife, which often times can be seen while skiing or snowshoeing around the Park. photos courtesy of Yellowstone National Park / Dave Hebert, photographer
Yellowstone National Park spans an area of 3,468.4 square miles comprised of lakes, canyons, rivers and mountain ranges. Half of the world’s geothermal features are in Yellowstone, fueled by ongoing volcanism. Lava flows and rocks from volcanic eruptions over the milleniums have shaped the terrain. The thermal activity is year around, making Yellowstone an intriguing area to view. In addition, there are herds of wildlife making this their home.
Numerous guided tours are available from local tour operators. They know the trails - and there are many, both groomed and not - into the park's interior. They provide appropriate rental equipment for the type and ability of those in the group. If time is limited, day trips are offered to numerous areas. If time permits, stay in one of the Park's lodges and seek out several trips further into the interior. Or, for a real memorable experience, participate in an overnight camp trip. Don't worry. The tents are heated!

Old Faithful is the iconic symbol of Yellowstone. In the summer, thousands of people gravitate to it on a daily basis, but in winter, you might encounter three hundred - the limit set by the Park. One of the snow vehicles would have to transport any visitors to the site. Along the scenic route, you might encounter Yellowstone's abundant and diverse wildlife visible from the window in the warm vehicle. Habitat preferences and seasonal cycles of movement generally determine where a particular animal or herd may be at a particular time. Early morning and evening hours are when animals tend to be feeding, and therefore they may be more easily seen. However, numbers and variety of animals seen are largely a matter of luck and coincidence. In the distance, you might even hear a pack of wolves howling to break the otherwise silent environment.

While skiing, you might also encounter an animal or several while on a trail. Stay away from them. By being sensitive to its/their needs, you will see more of an animal's natural behavior and activity. If you cause an animal to move, you are too close! It is illegal to willfully remain near or approach wildlife, including birds, within ANY distance that disturbs or displaces the animal(s). It is best to use binoculars to view wildlife because they are unpredictable! And, your safety is of utmost importance!

The thermal features of the park are of real interest to many visitors. However, because of the heat emitted by them, the surrounding snow is not always available for skiing. It is recommended to ski in other areas. With miles and miles of groomed and ungroomed trails available, it is best to take a guided tour until you become familiar with the terrain and landmarks. Then, obtain maps from a visitor's center.
Many Resorts Offer Nordic Ski Terrain
Cross Country Skiing: 101

Classic Cross Country Skiing
In classic cross country, the skier moves the skis parallel to each other with a “kick and glide” motion. It is best on groomed cross country trails (two tracks are made by grooming machines in the snow for the skier to follow), but can also be taken to mixed conditions as you get more comfortable. This is a great starting point for most beginning cross country skiers.

Skate Skiing
Skate skiing most closely resembles inline skating. The skis are moved in a skating-type stride on groomed trails. The skis must be picked up off the ground with each stride—think what you see in the Olympics. Skating skis allows the skier to glide faster and for a longer distance for each stride than traditional cross country skiing. This also means a more intense aerobic workout than with traditional cross country skis.

Choosing Cross Country Skis
Within these two categories of cross country skiing there are a few types of skis to choose from – Traditional In-Track Skis, Off-Track Skis, Skating Skis and Backcountry Skis. Out of those you'll have to choose “waxable” versus “waxless” skis.

Traditional In-Track Skis: Best for groomed trails and can also be used on some un-groomed terrain. They have minimal sidecut (narrowness of middle of ski compared to tip and tail) so the skis will stay in the tracks.

Off-Track Skis: Most often used to navigate un-groomed trails and terrain in parks, open fields, and on golf courses. They are wider than in-track cross country skis and provide more flotation and stability in fresh snow.

Backcountry Skis: Made for exploring the backcountry and experiencing variable snow conditions. They are shorter and lighter than traditional cross-country skis. Backcountry skis are also wider and feature metal edges to help accommodate the variety of un-groomed terrain with better control. Note because of these special features, they’re not optimum to use for groomed, parallel tracks.

Skating Skis: Shorter, lighter and narrower than traditional cross-country skis. These ski properties accommodate the constant skating and lifting motion of skate cross country skiing. They generally will be about 10cm shorter than traditional skis. Most skating skis have no sidecut, which makes them more difficult to set on edge.

Cross Country Skis - Wax or Waxless?
Some cross country skis have waxable bases, on which you put “kick wax” for grip. Other skis have waxless bases—instead of wax, a pattern in the middle third of the ski base, such as small plastic ridges or scales, provides ski grip. Waxless skis have been designed to run beautifully in just about any kind of snow. While waxing offers optimal performance, waxless skis are more convenient. As conditions change, so must your wax, so you'll need to keep up with it. Waxless skis tend to be a little bit slower, but they climb uphill very well.

What size cross country ski is best for you?
As technology has evolved, Cross Country Ski Resorts Editor Roger Lohr suggests using the “paper test” to see if a particular pair of skis will adequately support your weight and provide optimum maneuverability both uphill and downhill. “On a hard floor surface, you should be able to slide a piece of paper under the skis when you stand evenly weighted on both of the ski centers,” Lohr says. “When all of your weight is applied to one ski at a time, the paper should be unable to slide.”

Boots and Bindings
First, and most importantly, make certain the bindings you choose are adequate for the category of cross country skis you will be using. There are bindings specifically designed for each style. By having a professional fit your bindings and trying them with the boots at time of fitting, you'll ensure yourself a cohesive and functional setup.

Like your bindings, make sure you choose a boot within your cross country ski category. Your boots should feel just like running shoes. They should offer a snug but comfortable fit with enough room for a pair of socks and a sock liner. A liner under a winter sock will provide extra warmth and comfort and help wick away moisture. If you have problems with your feet, you can wear a custom footbed or fitted insole in your boots.

Cross-country boots are often sized in European sizes (30s-40s) and sometimes in “mondo point” sizing like downhill ski boots (length in centimeters). Your local expert will be able to convert them to US size for you, or you can consult a sizing chart in the store or online. It’s important to try on the boots because sizing is crucial and varies from brand to brand. The fit should be snug and your heel should remain in place. You should be able to wiggle your toes, but as a rule contact with all parts of your foot is a good indication you have the right fit.

Poles
Poles are essential to cross country skiing. You'll need them to aid in your forward momentum. As a rule, select a pole that fits comfortably under your armpit. Skate skiers can use a longer pole. And, for backcountry cross country, adjustable poles are great so you can adjust the length to the varying conditions.

If this is your first set of cross country gear, any reasonably light pole will be fine. Lightweight poles are great for all types of cross country skiing, and are the most popular style being produced today. They will be best appreciated with skate skiing because of all the lifting involved. The basket - the loop or plastic cup at the bottom of the pole - prevents the pole from sinking too far into the snow. Therefore, it makes sense that the deeper the snow, the larger the basket can be. On groomed snow, a smaller basket is best.

Changing Demographics:
More Senior Skiers Can Be Found on the Slopes
by Leigh Gieringer

The population change for seniors - defined by being 55 or older - is increasing. The Baby Boom Generation include those born between 1946 and 1964. The oldest Boomers have reached retirement age. The youngest ones will be eligible for AARP sometime in 2014. Today, seniors represent 25.2% of the US population. By 2016, it is estimated that 27.2% of the population will be over 55. The number of skiers in the 50+ group has been creeping up each year, according to the National Ski Areas Association. In 2000, it was only 21%. It's not uncommon for skiers to remain on the slopes into their 70s, 80s and 90s. Many members of our own ski clubs fit the senior demographic. More seniors are in lift lines, skiing on the slopes and groups of them gather in ski lodges.

As a group, the Boomers were the wealthiest, most active and most physically fit generation up to that time. Advances in healthcare and resort amenities and equipment advancements have also added to the numbers of older skiers and boarders to be on the slopes each year.

Younger people still make up the majority on the slopes. The average skier is 38.5 years old. But, “The person who skis the most in a given year is 65 and older,” said Michael Berry, president of the NSAA, based in suburban Denver. And, those age 68 and older, averaged 9.5 days skiing last season. Boomers — those age 49 to 67 this year — also skied more than the national average of five times per year, according to an NSAA survey released in August.

Many skiers have worked their whole lives and have built up a very comfortable retirement. If their health is good, they have the time to venture out and enjoy experiencing their old favorite resorts and visiting new - to them - resorts. Senior discounts are not as prevalent as they used to be because their numbers have increased and many can afford the costs.

Here are some suggestions from experts to help not only an older skier, but everyone who wishes to continue to ski into their Golden Years.

- Stay in shape.
- Try to choose slopes with less traffic so you can safely ski a little slower.
- Think about afternoon sun and shadows. A west-facing slope will have better definition.
- Be cognizant of higher altitude and hydration.
- Walking in ski boots can be more challenging than skiing, so companies have developed lightweight shoes, like Pakems, that you can carry with you during the day for a quick change.
- Consider taking a gondola or chair lift down the mountain if weather sets in or you are tired.
- Know your abilities and select runs that you are comfortable on.

Note: The article refers mainly to skiers since most seniors are not snowboarders, however, it is not the intention to slight them in any way. *http://www.esri.com

Tips for the...

Today's skiers are healthier, more active, and more adventurous than ever before. However, even if you are in excellent shape, the physical changes that come with age present new challenges and obstacles - not to mention the hassles of modern travel, the extra security, the hidden fees, and so on and so forth. Here are some tips to make travel easier, safer, and more fun after 50.

Don’t Trust Over-the-Counter Drugs Overseas

- Drugs obtained overseas are like a box of chocolates, you never know what you’re going to get. So always carry these basic over the counter drugs when you travel.
  - Antacids, anti-diarrheal, sunscreen, cough and cold medicine, hydrocortisone cream, motion sickness medicine, antihistamines, and insect repellent.

If You Are Going to a Sunny Locale

- Be sure to ask your doctor if any of your prescription medicines cause increased sensitivity to the sun. Many do.

Create a Simple Medical Information Form to Carry in Your Wallet or with your Passport

Your form should include:

- Your name, address, and phone number
- Friends and relatives who should be contacted in an emergency including needed contact information
- Personal physician and dentist contact information
- Current medications, both prescription and OTC
- Known drug and food allergies
- Name and number of medical insurance company (NO 1-800 numbers)

In addition, ask friends who recently traveled to your destination what they wished they had taken with them. Facebook works well for this.

Insurance

Medicare will not cover you outside the US, Mexico or Canada. But, a lot of insurance policies such as Blue Cross/Blue Shield do. Check with your carrier prior to departure about what documentation they require for reimbursement and payment. In addition, some insurance carriers maintain offices overseas. Check with them. Last but not least, consider purchasing an insurance policy from your tour operator.
Over 50 Traveler

Even in the United States, Medicare and most insurance plans only pay to get you to the nearest hospital. If you need to be evacuated to a more appropriate facility it can be at your own expense. This is another reason to purchase trip interruption and cancellation insurance from your tour operator.

Take More Prescription Medicine Than You Think You Will Need

- An extra weeks worth is a good rule of thumb. You never know when your trip will be interrupted.
- Ask Your Doctor for Duplicate Prescriptions. This is essential in case your pills are lost or stolen.
- Put your Pills in Your Carry On. You never know when your luggage may be lost or stolen.
- Adjust your Schedule of Prescription Medicine to account for Time Zones. An easy way to do this is to carry an extra watch and keep it set to home time.

The Top 7 Triggers of Travelers Diarrhea

- Custards, pastries, and other desserts
- Raw vegetables, cold platters, and crudités
- Raw eggs or unpasteurized cheeses
- Tap water and ice cubes made of tap water
- Leafy green vegetables
- Raw shellfish
- Raw meat

World's best medicine for traveler's diarrhea: IMODIUM AD

Bug Bites and Stings

Applying meat tenderizer like Accent is one of the best ways to avoid pain and swelling. Make sure you take along an antihistamine if you are allergic to bug bites and stings. An EpiPen may also be a necessary addition to what you take with you.

Sunstroke Secret

Eat bananas, tomatoes, and oranges which are rich in electrolytes to avoid dangerous dehydration.

Shoes

Never wear new shoes or especially new hiking boots on vacation. Take a few weeks to break them in so you don’t get blisters.

Heart Medicine

If you take Nitro for your heart, make sure the pills or patches are fresh. They lose their potency over time.

Insulin

Carry a prescription for your syringes. Many states and countries will not sell them to you over the counter.

Visit the State Department website for Country Specific information and Warnings: http://travel.state.gov/travel/cis_pa_tw/cis/cis_4965.html
Pond skimming is fun to watch especially if you don’t like getting wet. The goal is to get enough speed going down the hill so you can “skim” the pond and get to the other side without falling in. The faster you ski/ride, the better chance you’ll have of making it to the other side of the pond.
As this is being written, ski season 2013-2014 has just barely begun. We are looking forward to several months of traversing mountain slopes, riding through deep powder, hiking through the backcountry, doing a little tree skiing, and perhaps even hopping into helicopters for unlimited first tracks snow action. After a stimulating day on the mountain, we can't wait to meet our ski/ride buddies in that special après ski destination for a brewski, hot chocolate or whatever. After all, there is so much to tell them about your wonderful and exciting day on the slopes.

Groomed slopes or powder caches are only available for a few months. And, there are so many resorts - not to mention trails - to experience. Will this be the best year - ever?

As the calendar advances, all good things must come to an end! Closing dates are typically set for their respective resorts depending on many factors. Occasionally, snow conditions may allow a resort to remain open longer than originally planned. However, there are major end of season celebrations resulting in some heavy duty “partying”. Resorts plan many different activities during those closing weeks and the actual closing weekend. Check your favorite resort’s website under “events” for what they have planned. And, make your reservations early, since these are very popular weekends. Skiing is usually fantastic, there are plenty of activities on the schedules, and lodging can sell out early.

One of the most exciting end of season activities is the Pond Skim. Pond Skimming is a tradition that dates back decades at numerous ski resorts. While other resorts have more recently added the activity into their end of season festivities. For anyone unfamiliar with a Pond Skim or Slush Cup Competition, the event involves brave (I suppose other adjectives could be substituted here) skiers and snowboarders attempting to cross a long, cold, often slush-filled pond. The objective is to make it to the other side without falling into the icy water. Ponds vary in length. Most are between 75 to 125 feet across. A few participants actually glide over the surface of the pond to the other...
The Marquis Event at Brundage Mountain’s Crazy Days is the Pond Skim. Wear a crazy costume. The Annual Spring Fling is fun for the entire family. The audience is certainly enjoying it. However, there is someone who might be a bit uncomfortable in this picture!

A word to the wise may be in order here. Put a wet suit on under that costume! Winners are mostly judged on distance, the creativity of the outfit worn, and the response of the crown. Other criteria may exist, as well. It doesn’t hurt to be able to get across the pond without falling into it, either!

Most pond skimming events limit the number of participants. Thus, if this is on your bucket list, don’t wait until the last moment to enter the competition. But, the fun for most is to watch the skiers and riders descend the slope at top speeds and attempt to make it across that freezing pond! Although hoping for successful journeys across what must seem to be an overwhelming stretch, the audience certainly enjoys watching participants take the plunge! That’s entertainment!

Don’t miss the fun. Check out the events calendar at your favorite resort for the end of season activities and any Pond Skimming events scheduled. Only a few are listed here.

Contestants must dress in costume (the funkier the better) as they attempt to cross a 100-foot pond on skis or a snowboard. The pond and the excitement happen at mid-mountain just outside Red Pine Lodge. Participants must be 10 years of age or older to enter. Spectators are required to have a lift pass to reach the site of the Pond Skim.

Explore the World: on Two Wheels

The Dalmatian Coast along the eastern side of the Adriatic Sea is a top bicycling destination.
Bicycle tours are a good option for summer travel because they allow you to take in the sights, smells, and sounds of a destination in a way that’s not possible from a bus or train. They offer the opportunity to get out into new landscapes and interact with the locals while enjoying the great outdoors during warmer months.

There’s a bike tour somewhere in the world that’s the perfect fit for your club or group members, and BikeToursDirect® is a central resource to find, organize, and book that tour. With nearly 500 tours in 70 countries worldwide, their tour specialists can guide your group through finding the right tour, customizing it if desired, and handling the booking and payment arrangements for the whole group. Below are a few recommendations and highlights from BikeToursDirect to help you start planning a bike tour for your group.

Top Regions for Bike Tours

BikeToursDirect represents local bicycle tour operators around the world, which means they’re able to offer you a selection of bike tours in both the classic and the more exotic destinations across the globe.

Europe is an ever-popular destination for bike touring due to its famed cities, charming countryside and villages, and great cycling infrastructure. In the more popular regions within Europe, BikeToursDirect represents multiple operators, which means you have a large selection of tours in which to find the right match for your group. For example, they can plan and coordinate more than 10 tours in Provence, 15 in Tuscany, and 13 along Austria’s Danube Bike Path. Beyond these classic European regions, Croatia, Ireland, Hungary, and Scotland are all top cycling destinations for a flavor of the Old World.

If you’re looking for a more unique destination, consider Central America or Asia for your club’s summer travel. Mexico and Costa Rica are lovely shoulder season destinations closer to home, while Thailand and Vietnam bicycle tours will allow you to experience the Far East in a different way.

Bike and Boat Tours

Many clubs enjoy the flexibility of bike and boat tours. On this type of tour, you can cycle during the day while your “floating hotel” makes its way to your next meeting point, perhaps joining you for lunch onboard during the day, and picking you up at the end of your day’s exploration.

These tours are particularly well suited for groups with mixed ability (or interest!) levels – if you have travelers who don’t want to ride a full day, they can relax on the boat in the afternoon after riding in the morning, or spend an entire day onboard enjoying the view while cruising. Bike and boat tours can also accommodate non-riders, who can remain onboard or get off the boat to explore and take public transportation to the next meeting point. Another bonus? You only have to unpack once!

The boats used for these tours range from barges floating through the canals of Holland and Belgium to motor yachts following the coasts of Italy, Croatia, the Greek Isles, and more.
Top destinations for European bike adventures include following the paths along the Danube in Austria (top) and journeys through Tuscany (left). With numerous different tours offered, there is one to fit just about any group. Some tours include bike and boat options so if a participant wishes to enjoy a day just floating along the river, they can relax. While others in the group may want to go sight seeing somewhere along the route. Many tours can be customized to provide a very memorable experience for all - along paved roads, gravel paths, through towns and along river banks. Some are guided. Others are self directed.
Your club or group can charter a boat to have it all to yourself, or you can join a larger boat that will have other guests (and meet new friends!). Some bike and boat tours (as well as land-based tours) offer electric bikes for rent. These e-bikes use a battery-powered motor to provide a permanent tailwind while you pedal, and they’re a great equalizer for groups of mixed ability levels to share the same pace comfortably.

Trip Planning Made Easy

The BikeToursDirect staff can assist with the entire planning and booking process, simplifying the organization and administration for your club’s trip leader. The first step will be to talk with you to learn as much as possible about what would appeal to your members, and they’ll come back with a few recommendations. Once you’ve selected a tour, they can review what kinds of customizations may be available for that program (like adding extra nights, revising daily distances, or including special activities).

BikeToursDirect will then create a custom tour page just for your club’s tour, which can be distributed to your membership to promote the tour. When club members are ready, they can book and pay directly with BikeToursDirect, rather than the trip leader having to gather deposits, balances, and personal travel information (unless they want to!). More details are available for clubs and groups at: www.biketours.com/club-programs.

How Well Do You Know Your Resorts?

by Leigh Gieringer

1. Mammoth Mountain, California

Mammoth Mountain Ski Area, is the highest ski resort in California. Mammoth is notable for the unusually large amount of snowfall it receives — about 400” annually— due to its location in a low gap in the Sierra Crest.

In the background of picture #1 is a rock formation known as the Minarets. The Minarets are unique and one of the most striking mountain features in all of the Sierra Nevada. This large collection of pinnacles rises sharply from its surroundings, creating an incredibly serrated skyline in the heart of the Ansel Adams Wilderness Area. There is a fine view of the Minarets from the summit of Mammoth Mountain, as well as from this chairlift. The Minarets are part of the Ritter Range, the remnants of an ancient volcanic massive that predates most of the Sierra granite.

2. Caviahue Ski Resort at the foot of the active Copahue Volcano, Argentina:

A relatively small ski area, Caviahue Ski Resort is located in a remote area of Argentina, thus, it is not known to most international skiers or boarders. The advantage is that the prices (once in the country) are inexpensive and the slopes are uncrowded. The resort trails are protected by Araucaria Trees (Monkey Puzzle Trees - pictured) which are indigenous only to Argentina or Chile. The terrain is relatively equally divided 30%/40%/30% for trail difficulty, but offers off-piste skiing and backcountry touring with the ascent to the crater of the volcano most popular. Steam from the volcano is actively released, but the geothermal activity also provides a hot springs for the perfect way to end a day on the slopes.

3. Mauna Kea, Hawaii offers some of the world’s highest skiing at 13,796’. Add the undersea base of -19,000’ and it is the world’s highest mountain. It covers approximately 100 square miles of wilderness terrain. photos by Jimmy Petterson
3. Mauna Kea, Hawaii:

Mauna Kea, a dormant volcano, is one of the highest island mountains in the world. It is located on the Big Island of Hawaii along with its slightly smaller neighboring mountain, Mauna Loa (13,796 ft.). If Mauna Kea’s height is measured from its base (19,000 feet below sea level), it surpasses even Mount Everest at 29,029’, and is the world’s highest mountain (31,796 ft.). Although there is no historical record of Mauna Kea’s eruption, geologic evidence suggests that the volcano last erupted around 1650. Eruptions are present in traditional Hawaiian folklore. According to legend, Mauna Kea and Mauna Loa were the domains of two opposing goddesses, Poliahu and Pele, respectively. Earthquakes and volcanic eruptions were produced from their violent rivalry.

Although there is about 100 miles of skiable terrain when it is covered in snow, it is not a resort. There are no lifts. There is no grooming. But, there is a road where a 4-wheel drive vehicle can navigate to the summit to drop off those wishing to descend the slopes on their boards.

Picture #3 should be recognizable due to the white mountain surrounded by the lower elevations with the dormant volcanic peaks in the background.

4. Lake Louise, Alberta, Canada:

Lake Louise Ski Resort is one of three major ski resorts located in the Banff National Park, Alberta, Canada. Between them, the areas offer almost 8,000 skiable terrain on one tri-area lift ticket. The other two are Mt. Norquay and Sunshine Village. The varied terrain is suitable to all ability levels - from gentle groomed slopes to extreme in-bound challenges for experts.

Lake Louise Ski Resort is the largest of the three at 4,200 acres. From the heights of the resort one can view stunning mountain vistas, glaciers and forests, plus beautiful Lake Louise nestled at the foot of several giant mountains seen in picture #4. During winter months, its icy surface offers many activities.

5. St. Moritz, Switzerland

Some resorts have beautiful water views!

Quiz

How well do you know them?

1. Homewood, Lake Tahoe, California
2. Ilulissat, Greenland
3. Mauna Kea, Hawaii
4. Lake Louise, Alberta, Canada
5. St. Moritz, Switzerland

5. St. Moritz, Switzerland:

St. Moritz is one of the world's most famous holiday resorts. The Corvatsch ski area is about a 15 kilometer drive from St. Moritz, one of the four separate mountains that make up the ski terrain of St. Moritz. There is a long run, however, from the Corvatsch, which takes skiers directly back to St. Moritz, finishing close to the famous 5-star Kempinski Grand Hotel des Bains. In photo #5, Rupert Scheiner enjoys a bit of powder on that descent, as the iced-over Lake Sils and Lake Silvaplana provide a typical Swiss background to the scene.

6. Mt. Bachelor, Oregon:

Mt. Bachelor Ski Area is located 22 miles west of Bend, Oregon in the central part of the state. It is a stratovolcano built on top of a volcanic shield in the Central Cascade Range. The conical shape was formed by many layers of hardened lava, pumice and ash. A stratovolcano is distinguished by a steep, somewhat triangular profile built up by periodic explosive eruptions, throughout the ages. The lava hardened quickly to form the conical shape.

Mt. Bachelor is known for the highest and largest lift accessible acreage in Oregon, and for its light, dry snow, diverse terrain and long ski seasons. Snowsport enthusiasts can ski or ride 360 degrees off the summit, hike the cinder cone or ski through the trees to find some great powder caches.

7. Homewood Mountain Resort, California:

Homewood Mountain Resort is one of the oldest ski resorts in the Lake Tahoe area dating back to 1961. It is built on the shores of the lake with fabulous views from just about every one of its 60 runs. They are now in the process of a major renovation, but in the meantime, enjoy those exceptional views. They have an average of 400 inches of snowfall annually, are mostly protected from the wind by Ellis Peak and bathe in sunshine much of the year.

8. Villarrica-Pucón Ski Resort, Chile:

Ski Pucón is a tiny resort located 20 minutes from Pucón on Lake Villarrica in the southern part of Chile. This is a unique resort with natural terrain on the slope of the smoking Villarrica Volcano. The conical volcano's terrain structure, created by past lava flows, offers natural steeps, jumps and halfpipes for advanced and intermediate skiers and riders, plus sweeping views of the gorgeous blue lake below. Hiking to summit at 9,317' to peer into the crater, is a popular venture. It is one of the world's most active volcanos.

8. Ilulissat, Greenland:

Photo #9 - previous page - is not taken at a ski resort, but in Greenland, you don't always need a resort to ski. There is usually a lot of snow almost everywhere during Greenland's winter. In fact, this photo was not even taken during the winter, but was actually shot during the month of May. The location is close to the village of Ilulissat, a village on the western seaboard about 200 kilometers north of the Arctic Circle. Ilulissat is most famous for its spectacular icefjord. This river of ice deposits approximately 20 billion tons of icebergs into the sea each year, and it is believed to have been the location that produced the famous chunk of ice that sank the mighty Titanic.

The four photos of the ski town main streets on the next page are probably the most recognizable pictures in this quiz. After a day of snowriding, most everyone wants to spend après ski or evenings experiencing the flavor of the community.
10. Banff, Alberta:
The town of Banff is located within the Banff National Park in the Canadian Rockies. Its origins date back to the 1880s after the transcontinental railway was built through the Bow Valley. In 1883, several railway employees found some natural hot springs on Sulphur Mountain. A couple of years later, the area was promoted as an international resort featuring the hot springs. The community was named after the president of the Canadian Pacific Railway’s birthplace - Banffshire, Scotland. The railway built several grand hotels along the rail route. Among them was the famous Banff The historic town of Banff followed. Banff Avenue seems to frame Cascade Mountain. Skiing was introduced to the Banff and Lake Louise area in 1909 by Swiss and Austrian mountain guides. photo/SkiBig3/Paul Zizka

11. Fernie, British Columbia:
Fernie is named after the nineteenth-century prospector, William Fernie, who established the Crows Nest Pass Coal Company in 1897. The following year, the Canadian Pacific Railway arrived establishing a townsite north of the original encampment. A disastrous fire leveled the downtown in 1904. The town was rebuilt using “fireproof” materials, however, four years later, a larger fire melted the bricks and mortar. The city was destroyed in a single afternoon. For a second time, a new Victorian styled city arose from the ashes. Most of these cherished historic main street buildings remain today. Fernie Alpine Resort, known for its impressive annual snowfall and wonderful powder skiing, is located nearby. photo/Resorts of the Canadian Rockies/ Henry Georgi

12. Breckenridge, Colorado:
Prospectors first entered this area of the current Summit County, during the Pikes Peak Gold Rush of 1859 when it was part of the Utah Territory. Gold was discovered east of Breckenridge. The town was founded to serve the miners. Historic Breckenridge currently contains the greatest concentration of historic buildings ranging from those constructed in settlement days to the late Victorian Era. Today, Breck’s Historic District is one of the largest in Colorado preserving its strong heritage. Skiing came to the area in 1961 when the Peak 8 Ski Area opened with one double chair, an unloading station midway up the slope and a short learning T-bar. Since then, there have been numerous owners, which have built up the Breckenridge Ski Resort into a World Class resort. This historic town has been a large part of its popularity. photo/Breckenridge Ski Resort/ Carl Scofield
Some resorts have created interesting structures. Some offer dramatic chutes, couloirs or rocky buttes.

15. Chamonix, France

14. Glencoe, Scotland photo by Jimmy Petterson

13. Telluride, Colorado:
Telluride also has a mining heritage dating back to the nineteenth-century. A silver mining camp was built on the site. Gold was found in the surrounding mountains in 1875. Three years later, the town of Columbia began settlement. In 1887, it was renamed Telluride after a mineral that was never found in the area, although area mines did provide ample zinc, lead, copper, silver and other gold ores.

A significant part of Telluride is also listed on the National Register of Historic Places. The main street is highly recognizable for those who have skied there or have seen pictures of the town. Again, the historic aspect has contributed to the success of the resort. photo/Telluride Ski Resort
14. Glencoe, Scotland:

Glencoe is one of five ski resorts in Scotland, and it is the oldest of the group. Situated in the western part of the country, Glencoe has something suitable for all abilities of skiers and boarders, but it is renowned for having the steepest run in Scotland. In this photo, Craig Cameron is carving up the corn snow on a descent called Flypaper. Some people might scoff at the thought of skiing in a country where the highest peak is only 1344 meters above the sea, but don't be fooled by such statistics. When the snow is right, Scotland's mountains can offer skiers a challenge and a thrill that will match the exhilaration that one can find in the Alps or the Rockies, and the rolling moors dotted with lakes and streams that lay below Flypaper provide a stunning background to a wonderful winter descent.

15. Chamonix/Mt. Blanc, France:

The Aiguille du Midi cable car leaves from the center of Chamonix. It is a two-staged journey. The first brings visitors to the Plan de l'Aiguille (2300m). The second traverses Les Pelerins glacier before rising up the North Face of the Aiguille du Midi.

The top station of the Aiguille du Midi has several terraces where visitors can take in the spectacular views of the Swiss, French and Italian Alps. On a clear day it is possible to see the Matterhorn, Monta Rosa and the Grand Combin. An elevator inside the rock rises the final 42m to the top terrace at 3842m. This is the closest you can get to Mont Blanc without climbing.

16. Red Mountain, British Columbia, Canada:

Over the summer, Red Mountain has expanded the resort by almost 1,000 additional acres bringing their total skiable terrain to 2,787. Grey Mountain - contiguous to Red and Granite Mountains will have its own chair ascending to the summit, with 360 degrees of skiing off the top. The expansion will add 22 new runs making it one of North American's top 20 resorts in terms of size. Red Mountain is one of the oldest ski resorts in North America as well, dating back to the early 1900s. It averages around 300 inches of light, dry powder. And, it offers a wide variety of challenging expert terrain and plenty for intermediates, too! The picture was taken on top of Mt. Roberts, overlooking the Red Mountain Resort, Rossland BC, Canada.

17. Kicking Horse, British Columbia, Canada:

Formally known as Whitetooth Ski Area, a small local ski area near Golden, British Columbia, it was bought out and expanded in 1999 and given a new name. There are four large bowls - Crystal Bowl, Bowl Over, Feuz Bowl and Super Bowl which converge into a single area about half way down the mountain providing 2,800 acres of in-bound skiable terrain. There is also plenty of exceptional backcountry areas accessed by foot along Terminator Ridge on the south side and Rudi's Bowl to the north. If hiking is not desired, try the Heli-skiing. The mountain summits receive about 300 inches of snow.
Powder, powder everywhere? Some resorts are known for their abundant snowfall, solitude, exquisite winter beauty, glade skiing and powder caches. The top picture to the left was taken in June, 2013. And, it is not in the Southern Hemisphere!

18. Val Di Mezdi, Italy:

The famous Val Di Mezdi (Midday Valley) descent is named because only around noon does the sun manage to send a few rays of light between the vertical walls on either side. The tour begins with a cable car ride above the cliffs of the famous Sella Group followed by a flat 45-minute walk to the Rifugio Boe. There, one enters the steep throat of the valley. Officially, this route is off-piste, but it is very well known. While it is not really extreme, the steepness combined with the generally firm snow and a relatively narrow couloir makes the run rather intimidating. A fall near the top can often lead to a rather long slide.

19. Sun Valley, Idaho:

Sun Valley is on every snowsport enthusiast’s bucket list to experience. One reason is that it was the first destination ski resort in the United States. The site was selected after an exhaustive search financed by Averell Harriman - the then chairman of the Union Pacific Railroad - to locate an ideal location. The resort opened in 1937. Mr. Harriman was an avid skier in the European Alps and desired to bring the sport to America. Another reason was to increase the ridership on his railroad. It was a very successful launch and Sun Valley has continued to be a World Class resort, not only offering tremendous ski/ride opportunities, but also a variety of après ski experiences such as the horse drawn sleighrides.

20. Whistler, British Columbia, Canada:

Can you believe Whistler Blackcomb still has this much snow in June? And, they were also able to open the 2013-2014 Ski Season 13 days early due to the heavy snow storms they have been receiving. By many standards, Whistler Blackcomb is the largest ski resort in North America. It also has the greatest uphill lift capacity making it one of the most frequented ski resorts with an average of over 2 million guests annually. Whistler Village - at the foot of the mountains is patterned after a quaint Tyrolean Village, which is self contained and very popular with visitors to the area. With over 400 inches of snow a year, one can see why the snow can pile up as shown in the picture!

21. Steamboat, Colorado:

Steamboat Ski Area is a major ski area in northwestern Colorado. Within its almost 3,000 acres, there are 165 named trails. The resort is known for its plentiful Champagne Powder®, western hospitality centered around an historic town, programs focused on family, and, of course its fabulous glade skiing. The solitude of skiing through the trees, coupled with abundant powder, and you can understand why Ski Town USA is so highly rated for its excellent tree skiing. As a change of pace, get out some Nordic skis, go to the tubing park, dash through the snow on a two horse open sleigh, ride horses, or see the mountains from a Hot Air Balloon. When the legs get tired, mosey down to the famed Strawberry Park Natural Outdoor Hot Springs. Or, enjoy a day at the Steamboat Grand Spa. There is fun for all!
22. Whitefish Mountain Resort, Montana:
Formerly known as The Big Mountain, Whitefish Mountain Resort is located in northwest Montana and easily accessible by auto, train (Amtrak) or air. With the addition of several new trails over the summer, it brings the number of marked trails to 102. The longest cruiser - Hellfire - is 3.3 miles. The terrain expands over 3,000 acres. Snow ghosts, seen in the picture to the left, are a common occurrence in the winter months. These “creatures” appear after a massive dump of wet snow covers the trees. But, when the sun comes out, they make a gorgeous sight! There is a variety of slope-side lodging, but Whitefish Mountain Resort is a mere eight miles from the beautiful city of Whitefish where evening activities abound. A free shuttle is available between the town and the ski mountain. The ambiance is more subdued than some other resorts, and it has terrain to match everyone’s desires, but the Whitefish Mountain Resort provides an excellent value, too!

23. Deer Valley, Utah:
Located in the Wasatch Range, Deer Valley lies approximately 36 miles east of Salt Lake City. It is one of Park City’s major ski resorts. The resort is consistently ranked as one of North America’s top resorts, and is known for its upscale amenities. Some of them include free ski valets, parking lot shuttles for its guests, as well as fine dining opportunities and upscale boutiques in the main lodge, and more. The resort has a higher lift capacity than surrounding resorts to reduce lift lines and ticket sales are limited for daily use so the slopes are uncrowded. The resort strives to provide a thoroughly enjoyable ski experience which is one of the reasons why Deer Valley is so highly rated by those who have skied there. And, it has a high rate of returning guests. As shown in the picture, skiers pass million dollar homes on their journey down the slopes. Historic Park City - an old silver mining town - is nearby, filled with a wide variety of excellent restaurants, lively bars and a multitude of après ski activities.

How well did you do?
There is a wide variety of ski areas and resorts featured on the last several pages. Perhaps some were recognized, but more importantly, it is hoped that readers learned a little something about each one featured. Most ski areas do have a distinct personality. Some that appeal to one person may not be attractive to another. On the other hand, once a little more is learned about a particular resort, it might encourage them to seek it out to experience it.

Many of the pictures were taken by Jimmy Petterson. Some of the descriptive text was penned by him as he has had first hand knowledge of the more obscure resorts. He has made it his life’s work to ski as many resorts as he possibly can, and write about them so others can also appreciate them.

Each picture has been numbered. Write the name of the resort next to the corresponding number. Please indicate how many you identified before looking at the answers appearing in this insert. Send the list to:

In addition to the happy hours, parties and dinners, the seven different clubs had a lot of activities planned to beat the heat throughout the southwest!

ASC has elected their new officers for 2013-2014. They are as follows: President, Arleigh Meiners; Vice-President, Wanda Himler; Secretary, Jim Nachbar; Treasurer, Carla Kramer; and Race Coordinator, Bill Behnke.

Attending the banquet were 22 Past Presidents, one being a president from 1954. Old pictures and newsletters were on display for everyone to view. A melodrama called “Sagebrush Sidekick” was another activity that was part of the 65th Anniversary celebration.

PSC is getting ready for a fantastic 2013-2014 ski season. Seven ski trips are being planned and the ski trip over New Year’s is to Ogden, Utah with skiing at Snowbasin and Powder Mountain. Bay Area Snow Sports Council

by Dennis Heffley, President

The Bay Area Snow Sports Council (BAC) is a very active part of the Far West Ski Association and the National Ski Council Federation. Our focus is Having Fun! One might ask, “Who should join a BAC club?” A very simple answer is . . . YOU!

The BAC has 30 active member clubs based in the greater San Francisco Bay area which extends as far north as the Napa Valley, south to Monterey/Carmel and east to Modesto. We feature two separate leagues within the BAC. Our Open League has 25 clubs, and welcomes individuals, couples, families and their children. Our Singles League is made up of five clubs with their membership being over 21 years of age. They must be single to initially join one of their clubs.

There is also the social aspect in all of our BAC clubs! Non skiers and non-snowboarders find their way to our member clubs for activities such as dancing, hiking, camping, bike riding, tennis, golf, adventure travel and more! In fact, we have members who have been on all seven continents of the world. Yes, even Antarctica!

Being so close to Lake Tahoe, you’ll find our members on the slopes almost any day during the winter! The variety of trips available through the BAC to go skiing, snowboarding, snow shoeing, cross country skiing, including non-skiing activities, can be found within our various club trips, council trips and FWSA trips. The locations include many Tahoe venues, domestic locations, adventures to Europe and just about all points on a compass.

Another wonderful part of the BAC clubs and our members is how we volunteer our time and energy through community outreach and fund raising. Our main benefactor is Disabled Sports USA Far West Division (DSUSA). Over the years, we have raised over $400,000.00 for their program! On August 2, 2013, we held our 8th Annual BAC/DSUSA Oakland A’s Baseball Game, Tailgate BBQ and Fireworks event. Members of the BAC, their friends and family had a great night. Thank you to the Oakland A’s Baseball and Vail Resorts for supporting this event!

The history of the Bay Area Snow Sports Council is just as amazing as what is taking place today. In mid 1941, the Bay Area Ski Federation was organized “For the welfare of Bay Area Skiers” and voted to join the Far West Ski Association as the Bay Area Council (BAC) Ski Clubs in 1961. To embrace all snow sports activities, the current name of the BAC is “Bay Area Snow Sports Council”. During all four seasons, our BAC clubs are very active!

The Singles League portion of the BAC holds an Annual Snow Ball in November to celebrate the coming winter sports season. This year, we are having our 39th Anniversary of this gala event! The evening consists of a wonderful black tie optional dinner/ dance along with a silent auction and an amazing raffle. Our auction and raffle would not be possible without the tremendous support that we receive from the ski industry and resorts!

We, in the leadership of the BAC, are very lucky to have our clubs and their members associated with us along with having the Lake Tahoe area in our backyard. Our members are amazing and the amount of history and diversity of places to ski and snowboard is a true gift.

Our Recreational Race Schedules for 2013-2014 feature Alpine Meadows, NorthStar at California, Homewood and Squaw Valley! Recreational Racing means we cater to all abilities from experts to those who are beginners. Then, there are the Far West Championships at Mammoth Mountain Resort! Become one of our “racers”, and come out to have a great time. Even if you don’t race, please join us on the slopes during any of our on mountain events. Cow bells are encouraged!

In our continued efforts to share information with our BAC members, we have a monthly BAC General Meeting where we welcome and look forward to having guest speakers who talk about their resorts, products and/or travel opportunities. This year, we are also putting a great deal of energy into sharing information on how to improve our various clubs through information and interactive conversations!

If you have any questions or need more information about the BAC, please contact me at bacpresident@skibac.org or look at our website at www.skibac.org.

To our members, clubs and those who donate and support our efforts. I always like to say . . .

“Thank You For Being The One Who Makes The Difference!”

The Lake Tahoe area is an especially popular destination for BAC and Sierra Council clubs since they are relatively nearby for most of them. The area offers numerous World-Class resorts with thousands of acres devoted to snowsports. Over $100,000,000 has been designated into ongoing capital improvements to enhance their guest’s experiences and to assist in the region’s bids for the 2015 Winter X Games and the 2026 Winter Olympics. photo/VisitRenoTahoe.com

Central Council of California
by Fran Long, President

Central Council offers a variety of services to its member clubs. Our four smaller clubs rely on Central Council more heavily for travel options, weekend ski trips, etc. than the four larger clubs. For all our member clubs, Central Council offers information and options. The individual clubs choose how much of the information filters down to their members, and how many of those options they want made available to their membership. Clubs generally like to offer the benefits made available by the council, Far West Ski Association, and the National Ski Council Federation, including travel options, discount lodging, and discounts at various ski related venues. If you are a club member, and you haven’t heard about the benefits and options available to you, inquire at your next meeting, or contact your council president or membership person directly.

Central Council sponsors and/or co-sponsors several events each year. A variety of weekend and midweek trips to Mammoth Mountain is always in the mix. The council also supports the FWSA North American Ski Week held the end of January or the beginning of February each year, the Mini Ski Week usually held in the spring, the International Ski Week, as well as the many adventure trips FWSA has to offer.

Central Council currently has eight clubs, one of which is an online family adventure club. All of the clubs have very active winter travel programs as well as a variety of summer activities that are bound to attract the attention of anyone interested in getting to know people, having fun, and staying active. Contact information on all our clubs can be found adjacent to this article. Check us out. If you live in the Central California area, chances are we have a club near you. Look around, join as a stranger, and plan to leave with many life-long friends.

Basic information is located on our website: www.centralcouncilskiclubs.org, and more detailed information can be received by contacting those in charge of the events you will find on the website.
Inland Council
by Dan Crawford, President

Inland Council was formed in 1971. The council currently represents three ski clubs from the Inland Empire region of Southern California. Its affiliated clubs actively promote a variety of recreational opportunities for non-skiers, skiers, and snowboarders. Clubs schedule trips to Mammoth Mountain and Lake Tahoe during the ski season, plus outings throughout the year including water ski trips, kayaking, bike rides, social gatherings, barbecues, and more. We welcome volunteers to help organize and run our club and council programs. If you have any interest, please contact Wayne Stolfus.

The racers from Inland Council will participate this year by attending the race weekends and events at Mammoth Mountain and Lake Tahoe sponsored by Rokka and Schusski leagues. Some of our racers will also participate in the races offered by Sierra and Open Leagues in the Lake Tahoe area. In addition, racers will also be part of the SoCal Championships in March and the Far West Racing Championships in April at Mammoth Mountain.

This past year, Sitzmarkers Ski & Social Club attended the 2013 Ski Week at Aspen/Snowmass with a group of their associate members from the Milwaukee Sitzmarker Ski Club, and they plan to participate at the 2014 FWASA Ski Week at Beaver Creek. We look forward to another exciting week with lots of activities, parties, racing, and exceptional skiing. Club members have also attended and enjoyed many FWASA International trips.

Intermountain Ski Council
by Michael Bouton, President

The Intermountain Ski Council is coming of age. We have added four new clubs, experienced an epic ski trip to Grand Targhee Resort, paddled our treasury a bit with a very successful auction and raffle, and have a full slate of officers going into our 8th year with the Far West Ski Association. Along with all of that, we have shown increasing numbers of delegates attending the annual conventions.

We have our ski trip planned this next season for Jackson Hole, Wyoming, the first week of March, 2014. The tentative price is $599 for four days of lift passes and five nights of lodging with breakfast and transportation to Teton Village. This should be a great time of year for lots of powder. ISC along with the Idaho Falls Ski Club will sponsor a European ski trip to Grindelwald, Switzerland in February, 2014. The prices will be available by September. We’d like to invite other clubs to participate. We have a club from Maryland traveling out to Jackson Hole. Our reputation from last season at Targhee has spread to the east coast. We are a fun bunch!

The Intermountain Ski Council will sponsor a European ski trip to Grindelwald, Switzerland in February, 2014. The prices will be available by September. We’d like to invite other clubs to participate. We have a club from Maryland traveling out to Jackson Hole. Our reputation from last season at Targhee has spread to the east coast. We are a fun bunch!

The council officers for this year are: President - Michael Bouton; Treasurer - Paul Markowitz; Secretary - Luci Snowoski; Communication Director - Lennia Machen; VP of Travel - Kitty Im- dalh; and VP of Membership - Kim Hovern. They were elected at the regular council meeting held June 11, 2013.

I believe this will be an energetic and creative group of people moving the council forward for greater purposes into the future. I will be adding a representative from each of our University Clubs (Boise State, Utah State, and Weber State Universities) in the fall. There will be plenty of young skiers and boarders to learn a few things from, as well as, to recruit others to our clubs. I know we can have some terrific service programs going on throughout the season.

Our goal this coming season is to bring our clubs together for more fun experiences and relationship building. We are spread out over five states and many miles. It takes a special event to get many of us together. I am hopeful that we can achieve this at our ISC ski trip to Jackson Hole. I am looking forward to a terrific trip with many of you attending. Let us make your ski vacation a really great experience.
The Intermountain Ski Council trip was coordinated by Michael Bouton and his wife Julie. Eighty-five skiers attended their council ski week trip to Grand Targhee, Wyoming. Grand Targhee is located on the west slope or “wet” side of the 13,700’ Grand Tetons. Thus, the resort averages over 500 inches of snowfall per season ranking it among the top ski resorts in North America for abundant snow. The majority of the trails are black or double black diamond, however, there are also Nordic skiing trails, snowshoeing, snowcat adventures, and activities that include sleigh ride dinners and dogsled tours.

Right: The 2014 Intermountain Council Ski Week is scheduled for Jackson Hole, Wyoming. Jackson Hole’s terrain is considered to be some of the most challenging in North America. In addition to the skiable terrain inbounds, there is an even larger area to be explored off-piste.
Los Angeles Council of Ski Clubs
by Sandra Knapp, President

As the new president of Los Angeles Council of Ski Clubs, I am blessed with an experienced and capable group of officers who are already hard at work preparing for another year of skiing and fun for our 25 member clubs. The Los Angeles Council is one of the oldest and largest councils in the Far West Ski Association.

I am excited to report we had a great turnout at the fabulous 81st Annual FWSA Convention in Reno this past June! And, we are all proud of our new FWSA President, Linda Scott, from Grindelwald Ski Club, Los Angeles Council; and Cheyenne Ski Club, Intermountain Ski Council. We are also proud to bring home awards for club newsletters and websites, which included Pacific Rim Alliance and Single Ski Club, AND the Outstanding Council Publication Award for the Los Angeles Council newsletter, Snow Scene. Congratulations Bonnie West! Congratulations also goes to Catherine Ohl, Pacific Rim Alliance, and Jane Wyckoff, Single Ski Club, both recipients of the FWSA President’s Award.

I think our greatest pride comes from our $100 award for the Council division of the FWSA Charity and Community Service Recognition Program. We donated it to The Unrecables, our adaptive snowsports club, which serves snowsport lovers with special needs. We’ll aim to make next year a repeat!

Our FWSA Athletic Scholarship sponsored junior racer, Kayleigh MacGregor and her parents, Christina and Brian, were able to join us at the Convention for the Saturday luncheon and dinner. Kayleigh thanked FWSA and LA Council for their support the past year, and must have inspired everyone to generate additional donations to the scholarship program on Sunday morning. Congratulations Kayleigh! LA Council will continue its sponsorship for the 2013-2014 year.

Sandra Blackwell, VP of Travel for LA Council ran our council ski trip to Mt. Bachelor February 23 - March 2. Seventeen happy skiers enjoyed the various faces of Mt. Bachelor, as well as, the wonders and delights of Deschutes County and Bend. We’re looking forward to exploring more of this marvelous area next year at the 82nd FWSA Convention in Bend, Oregon, June 12-15, 2014.

Looking ahead, we are planning another season-starting Snow Gala, this time at the prestigious Taix French Restaurant (pronounced “tax”, really) November 9. We look forward to choosing LAC’s Man and Woman of the year to compete in the FWSA Council’s Man and Woman of the Year competition at next year’s FWSA Convention, honoring outstanding ski club volunteers. Congratulations to Steve Elkins and Sandy Blackwell, of Single Ski Club, our 2012-2013 LA Council Man and Woman of the Year, who were recognized for their outstanding contributions at the 2013 FWSA Convention. Also, we plan to have another great time at this year’s Ski Dazzle December 5 - 8 at the Los Angeles Convention Center.

The Los Angeles Council Ski, Ride & Race Camp is held each year in December at Mammoth Mountain, California. Various clubs run their own week-long ski trips during ski season which will be posted on our website as information becomes available. Let’s all cross our fingers for a super ski season for 2013-2014.

Mark your calendars for all these events and check our website at www.lacouncil.org, and especially our website calendar for more exciting activities.

Far West Skier’s Guide 2013 - 2014 73
The New Mexico Ski Club Council was formed in 1999 and is still the smallest council in the Far West Ski Association. We serve mostly the Northern and Central area of New Mexico with all clubs located in the Albuquerque area. Even though our clubs all have skiing in common, they each are friendly, vibrant clubs with their own diverse character and size of membership.

This year, our clubs enjoyed several ski trips mostly in New Mexico and Colorado. Taos, Red River, Santa Fe, Telluride, Crested Butte, and Pagosa Springs, were all club organized trips with many sub-groups within the clubs tripping out to destinations far and wide.

The New Mexico Cross Country Ski Club and the Sitzmarkers Ski Club are year-round clubs and enjoy water skiing, boating, camping, softball leagues, backyard parties, and just hanging out together.

Being a member of a FWSA ski club has many great benefits, including: group travel, the opportunity to race, receiving the Far West Skier’s Guide magazine, FWSA support to local clubs on local issues regarding insurance and legislation, and networking with other similar minded ski enthusiasts.

If you have not yet found a ski club in the New Mexico area, please check out one of these great clubs and join us on the slopes this winter, or at one of our other great outdoor adventures.

Much of the terrain in Taos Ski Valley is challenging, best suited for strong intermediates or experts. There are many great chutes and off-piste runs for thrills. But, there is also terrain for the beginner and intermediate; and an award winning ski school, as well as ski improvement camps to advance ones skills to get to the next level. The European influenced resort village at the base is conveniently located for all your needs, while the town of Taos is filled with a mixture of Hispanic and Pueblo Indian cultures.

Northwest Ski Club Council

by Mary Olhausen, President

Northwest Ski Club Council, organized in 1979, represents 35 ski and snowboard clubs in Oregon, Washington, Alaska and Hawaii. Our clubs offer winter activities with club trips to many western ski resorts. Summer months bring lots of outdoor activities including cycling, hiking, golfing, sailing, and specialty trips and events like wine tours, seafood parties, theater, festivals and club picnics.

NWSCC meets every other month at Portland area venues for a lively meeting with varying themes and guest speakers. Topics include travel, safety, outreach and charities, ski resort news, and club activities. When you join a NWSCC club, you are automatically a member of Far West Ski Association. NWSCC is also affiliated with Pacific Northwest Ski Areas Association (PNSAA), the National Ski Areas Association (NSA), and the National Ski Council Federation (NSCF). The NSCF brings you lots of member benefits for your skiing and travel needs. Visit them at www.nwskiefederation.org. In addition, we are associated with Ski Oregon.

Our kickoff event for ski season is our annual Ski Fair on November 8-10 and Portland Ski Fever Show (November 15-17). These shows provide our council and clubs an opportunity to provide information to the public about the benefits of ski club membership and our various activities.

Our Ski Challenge Program provides encouragement for skiers to visit our supporting resorts in Oregon, Washington, Idaho, Alaska, British Columbia and Alberta. Collect lift tickets and win prizes! Through the ski season, we promote several “Ski Days” at our local resorts, encouraging club participation.

Our annual publication, Northwest Skiers’ Directory, is published each fall, in conjunction with our commercial membership program. The Directory provides club profiles, ski resort stats and interesting ski-related stories. Look for a copy in your favorite NW outdoor store! Our advocacy group, Northwest Snowsports Advocates, partners with our ski industry friends when our opinions can make a difference with public affairs and ski area development.

Racing is very popular with our NW skiers. Our recreational race league, PACRAT, is open to skiers and snowboarders of all abilities. First time racers are especially encouraged to participate. The end of season race party, fondly known as the Rat Attack, is held in April. For more information on racing with PACRAT, please visit their website at www.pacrats.org.

NWSCC clubs are known for their charitable and community outreach efforts! A few of the organizations we support are Hope On The Slopes-Ski & Ride For A Cure, Mt. Bachelor Ski Education Foundation, Mt. Hood Cultural Center & Museum, Mt. Hood Ski Education Foundation, Mt. Hood Ski Patrol, Outdoors For All Foundation, Northwest Trail Alliance, Oregon Adaptive Sports, and Oregon Cancer Ski Out. Some of the great events/programs we support are, Adopt A Highway, Ski to Defeat ALS, Adaptive Skier Programs, Hope On The Slopes/Ski & Ride For A Cure, Susan G. Komen, Oregon Food Bank, and Special Olympics.

In addition, NWSCC and three of our member clubs support the FWSA Athletic Scholarship Program with contributions to assist junior racers. The clubs are Skiyente Ski Club, Mountain High Snowsport Club, and Bergfreunde Ski Club. NWSCC was a proud contributor to the US Women's Ski Jumping to assist them to get to Sochi in 2014. We held a fundraiser, showing the documentary movie “Ready To Fly”.

NWSCC, member clubs and a local ski resort took home awards at the 2013 Far West Convention: Outstanding Website Award - Skiyente Ski Club and Mt. High Snowsport Club; Outstanding Council Website and Newsletter - NW Ski Club Council; FWSA Tommi Tyndall Award - Mt. Bachelor Ski Resort; FWSA Safety Award - Gordon Lusk; and FWSA Jimmie Henga Award - Fred Noble.

Dale Parshall and Louise DeFresne represented NWSCC as Councils’ Man and Woman of The Year. To our delight, Dale was named FWSA Councils’ Man of The Year.

One of the greatest benefits of membership in NWSCC and FWSA are the ski trip opportunities, with exceptional offerings of location, lodging and lift tickets. And, don’t forget the FUN you will have skiing new places, with new friends!

NWSCC will participate in the FWSA Ski Week to Beaver Creek, CO, with about 40 club members. FWSA offers an array of travel opportunities, so check out the FWSA website for all the details, including the Mini Ski Week, dive trip, adventure trip, and International Ski Week to Zermatt, Switzerland.

Can you say “Volcanic Paradise”? In June 2014, NWSCC invites you to Bend, Oregon where we will celebrate our 35th birthday and host the 82nd Annual FWSA Convention. The dates are June 12-15. Our host lodging will be The Riverhouse Hotel & Convention Center. Make plans now to arrive early and stay late for all that central Oregon and Bend have to offer. Limitless world famous outdoor activities await you. Optional activities for the convention will include a Mt. Bachelor Ski Day & Tailgater Party, Pub Crawling Bend Style, Michael German Memorial Golf Tournament, Adventure Day at Smith Rock State Park, and Biking Around Bend.

Orange Council of Ski Clubs has been serving the ski community in and around Orange County, and the Southern California Area, since 1971. We are, and always have been, an active member of the Far West Ski Association and a member of the National Ski Council Federation.

Orange Council not only offers great travel adventures in skiing, but also supports some very important programs, such as the United States Adaptive Recreation Center (USARC), the Wounded Warriors, and many community charities. We also support FWSA’s Athletic Scholarship Program and remain informed about public affairs issues, such as area development, ski safety and ski history.

Orange Council, and its ski clubs’ travel programs, feature a variety of different ski trips. Our clubs schedule weekend ski trips to Mammoth Mountain, from December to March, and sometimes in July, if the snow is still good. We do have a few hearty souls still skiing Mammoth Mountain if the resort is still open as we enter the summer months. Because we have so many ski clubs located within the “OC”, there are a variety of different trips offered throughout the ski season.

Orange Council is very proud to have a very strong race program. We are members of the Rokka (Shusski) Race League. Our first race will be in Mammoth on December 13-15, 2013. The 2014 schedule is January 10-13, February 21-24, and March 21-24. Finals will be held at Mammoth Mountain April 4-6, 2014. We welcome anyone who is interested in racing, or want to learn to race, or used to race and would like to get back into racing, to please contact Maxine Hanlon, our VP Racing at maxch@prodigy.net.

All clubs have scheduled several weekend, mid-week trips to Mammoth Mountain, and other out of the area ski week trips. Some out of state ski week trips scheduled for 2014 are Fountain Valley Ski Club to Whistler, Canada February 22 – March 1, 2014, and Orange County Ski and Snowboarding Club is taking a group up to Lake Tahoe. For information on any of these trips and other activities please go to www.orangecouncil.org.

This year, Orange Council will be attending the Far West Ski Association Ski Week 2014 in Beaver Creek, Colorado, January 25 - February 1, 2014. The ski week is always filled with lots of skiing, racing, après parties, dinner and camaraderie. If you would like to join us for this wonderful trip, please contact Sheila Van Gelder our VP of Travel at svanguard@yahoo.com.

As a member of the Far West Ski Association, Orange Council attends the annual FWSA Convention, which was held in Reno, Nevada in June of 2013. This year, we were very proud to have Dean Young, a member of Balboa Ski and Sports Club, as our nominee for the FWSA Council’s Man of the Year recognition program. A big congratulations to Dean!

Orange Council of Ski Clubs is located in a variety of communities within the Orange County boundaries. All of our clubs have been working closely with the council since 1972. Each club is unique, offering different types of activities, ranging from ski and snowboarding, to summer sports, tennis, beach volleyball tournaments, kayaking, biking, wine tasting, and summer outdoor concerts.

Whether you live in north, central, east or west Orange County, or in one of our beach communities, there is a club especially for you. For more information about our organization and ski clubs, meeting times, and places, please check out our website.

San Diego Council of Ski Clubs
by Eileen Sanford, President

The mission of San Diego Council of Ski Clubs is to support and promote the sport of recreational skiing and snowboarding in the southern California area.

At the present time we have ten very active clubs. Hundreds of members belong to one or more of these clubs. They enjoy skiing and snowboarding nationally and internationally each year. Our clubs enjoy outdoor activities during the summer. Many of the clubs move their meetings to the parks and beaches for the summer. Members enjoy getting together for Padre games, museum tours, biking, hiking, tennis, horse races at Del Mar, Bunco parties and the Summer Pops concerts.

The ski season starts with sign-ups in October, racing in December and ski trips from December through April. The novelty of enjoying warm beautiful beaches all year long and being able to jump on a bus or plane and enjoy the winter sport of skiing or snowboarding is a drawing card for our strong support from club members.

The San Diego Alpine Race League is also continuing to promote recreational skiing and snowboard racing amongst the skiers in the San Diego area. SDCSC won the Southern California Race Championships this year. We are proud of our strong participation and many individual winners. North Island Ski Club (NIS) won the Alpine League trophy again this year for the most club points of the season. Congratulations to Julio Deguzman and Lina Arnold, Race Directors. A special thanks goes the Alpine League Board:

Eileen Weiner, President; Laura Meldrum, Race Statistics; Bob Brower, Vice President; Martin Washer, Lina Arnold, Tom Bundgard, and Carl Cobb, Club Race Directors.

The 2014 season opens with December trips to Aspen and Mammoth. The Mammoth trip will host our first Alpine League race of the season. The Aspen trip is the 17th Annual trip for the SDCSC. Mike Sanford, the Grand Aspen Puba, will lead the San Diegans down the slopes. Gates Ingram will cook his famous French Toast breakfast on the last day. People will gather for the annual Aspen gift exchange party and many more great optional activities including Happy Hours at the Jerome Hotel and the St. Regis Hotel.

During the winter 2013 season, 40 SDCSC members had a great time at the FWSA North America trip to Aspen Snowmass. Our members came back with great ski adventure and party stories due to the great efforts of Susan Shaffer, our travel director. Deposits are already coming in for the FWSA trip to Beaver Creek in 2014. Alan Godwin, assistant trip director, is joining the board. He is a snowboarder and hopes to encourage a younger crowd on the trips.

The SDCSC will have our second European bike trip in September 2013 to Loire Valley, France followed by a Grand Circle River Cruise down the Rhone River from Lyon to Nice. We have 21 bikers and 30 cruisers to enjoy the chateaus, wine and people of France. C'est la vie!

SDCSC is excited to announce a trip hosted by Overseas Adventure Travel to Serengeti, Africa on August 19, 2014. It will be a 13 day trip base with a three day pre-trip to Kilimanjaro and five day post-trip to Zanzibar. The base price is $5,695 including airfare. Contact Eileen Sanford if interested. esanford1@san.rr.com

Individual clubs in 2013 went to: Vail, Mammoth, Big Bear, Park City, Big White, Northstar and Whitefish.

Plans for the 2014 ski trips include, Aspen, Beaver Creek, Big Bear, Mammoth and Winter Park. Many clubs do three day bus trips to Mammoth during the ski season on race weekends to support the Alpine Race League.

Our official start of the ski season will begin with our Rock and Roll Gala organized by Barbara Blase and Chris Gill. This year, the Gala will be held at the Holiday Inn Shelter Island. The cost will be $35 for dinner and dancing with a DJ. Contact Barbara Blase to make a reservation. bbblase@san.rr.com

The clubs select an outstanding man and a woman as a way of honoring their most valuable and active members. In 2013 our award winners were Diane Raines of Torrey Pines Ski Club and Dave Arnold of North Island Snowdrifters.

SDCSC supports various charities, such as Can Do MS Foundation, American Cancer Society, American Heart Association, Special Olympics, United States Adaptive Recreation Center (USARC), Habitat for Humanity, San Diego Community Youth Sports Mentoring, Toys for Tots and Becky’s House. One of our clubs maintains an active account at the San Diego Blood Bank in case a member needs blood.
There are many reasons to become involved in a Sierra Council ski club:

- Ski and board with new friends
- Get group discounts on trips and lift tickets
- Enjoy year-round social and outdoor sport activities
- Try recreational ski and snowboard racing

The members of the 12 Sierra Council clubs and race teams enthusiastically welcome new members to join in their snowsports and other activities. Our larger member clubs offer a variety of year-round activities, including golf, tennis, campouts, hiking, trips to summer festivals, and additional opportunities for social interaction at meetings, parties and happy hours. Our annual council holiday party in early December provides a festive start to the new ski season.

In northern Nevada, the Reno Ski and Recreation Club offers a full schedule of social activities throughout the year, as well as summer camping trips and group ski days at Lake Tahoe resorts. They are taking a club trip to Vail this winter.

The Top Gun Club members are primarily active and retired military members in northern Nevada and the Lake Tahoe areas who participate in racing. The Rat Pack is based on the Lake Tahoe south shore, and the Sugar Bowl Ski Club operates out of that resort.

Each club offers a different experience. They all enthusiastically welcome active adults who enjoy skiing, boarding and other outdoor activities and socializing.
with others who have similar interests.

Our club members enthusiastically participate in Far West Ski Association trips. Larger clubs offer group ski days at nearby resorts and week long and weekend trips.

Extensive Racing Program

Recreational ski racing is a key activity of the council. Clubs and individuals compete for medals and end of season awards. The race league typically schedules eight regular season races, including a very popular Super G race.

We share the race course with the Bay Area Snow Sports Council’s Singles and Open Leagues. This collaboration keeps participation costs affordable and enhances the racing experience. Sierra racers span all ability levels. Any skier who can make linked turns can have a fun time on the race course competing with skiers of similar ability. It’s fun to meet and engage in friendly competition with members of other clubs.

Sierra League offers two race clinics over Presidents’ Day weekend to get new racers started and to help experienced racers improve. Because our top league racers volunteer their time to coach at these clinics, racers receive excellent coaching at a minimal cost.

Try racing. It’s a fun way to expand your skiing experience and improve your ability while making new friends. Junior racers are welcome if accompanied by a racing parent or guardian and they race for free. Our racers are generous with their time to introduce new racers to the world of friendly competition.

Check out our clubs. Sign up for a trip or activity. Ski clubs are a great way to meet active adults who enjoy outdoor recreation and a wide range of social activities.
